CRIME IN HONGKONG.

Hongkong's morality is distinctly on the upward grade, if we may judge from the severely statistical statement issued by the Superintendent of Victoria Gaol for the past year. It is a notorious fact that figures are by no means the best guide which we can have if we desire to form a just estimate of the crime of the Colony for a specified period, because a great deal depends not so much on the number of cases as on the character of the crimes committed. It is impossible, in the absence of any explanatory remarks, by the Superintendent of the Gaol, to say whether Hongkong is improving in this respect, but it is at least noteworthy that the number of convictions for actual crime—including petty offences—of every description—showed a reduction of 1,213. In 1905 there were 64 prisoners received from the military authorities as compared with 95 in the previous year, a significant reduction. Under the heading of "On-remand or in default of finding surety" no less than 856 persons lost their liberty—temporarily, let us hope—during the year, which was a slight increase over the number of those who failed to find bail or were unable to give guarantees of good faith in 1904. In considering one item of the list of "prisoners received," which is the "quaint, official way of looking at the matter, one is inclined to ask—Are we becoming more lenient towards those who fail to pay their debts? Not so very long ago, when an individual failed to meet his obligations the creditor did not think twice over the matter. He simply clapped the debtor into prison. Nowadays, the creditor seems willing to put off the day when he must resort to the Court, hoping, no doubt, that the debtor will eventually pay up like a man—hope tells him a flattering tale; at all events there were only 49 debtors imprisoned last year as contrasted with 64 in 1904. Including those who were on remand and those unable to find security or bail, 6,227 prisoners entered Victoria Gaol last year as against 7,404 in 1904—a reduction of 1,237, giving a percentage of .057 to the estimated population, the lowest recorded for the last five years. It is noteworthy that the number of convictions from the New Territory was 109 last year or more than double that of the previous year. It does not necessarily follow that crime has increased on the mainland; the probability is that the outlying districts are better policed, with the result that crimes and offences which a few years ago would have passed unchecked are now brought to light by the vigilance of the law. No less than 3,383 persons came under the discipline of the gaol for offences not of a criminal character, and of that number 1,307 had contravened some section of the Opium Ordinance. Five beggars spent a term in gaol. The report notes that first offenders are completely separated from habitual criminals, which is satisfactory; for too often the prison officials are apt to forget that the prison exists not so much for corrective purposes as for the reclamation of the lapsed, and particularly of those who have fallen for the first time and taste the degradation of compulsory confinement. Taking it altogether there is comparatively little of interest in the report—if two births within the precincts of the prison be excepted—the only outstanding fact being the great reduction in the number of those who endured prison life for a spell during the past year.

THE Japanese Naval Department has given notice that fifteen of the merchant vessels captured during the late war are to be sold by tender. Applications must be sent to the Department by the 10th inst. The following are the steamships which are to be sold: Yatsuyama Maru, Urusan Maru, King Arthur, Danryu Maru, Erino Maru, Scotsman, Shikiori Maru, Vegga, Henry Holkova, Chofuku Maru, Balos, Ridgely, and Montara. The sailing vessel Antelope is also to be sold by tender.

SHANGHAI ENGINEERING AND SHIPBUILDING COMPANY.

While the question of the re-construction of S. C. Farnham, Lloyd & Co. was agitating the shareholders of that Company and compelling the interest of all who have been watching the trend of events in the North, we denied the assertion made by the opponents of the re-construction scheme that the very existence of the new Company was threatened by the operations of the Kiangan Arsenal docks. It was argued that the Kiangan Arsenal was flourishing so greatly that it would shortly have all the work required by the Chinese Government, Chinese owners and other shipping in its hands. Being a Government concern and bolstered up with Government money, the Kiangan Arsenal could offer better terms than the Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Company. A short paragraph in the A. C. Daily News shows how fallacious that view was. It is as follows: "The American cruiser Kaleigh was undocked and a Chinese cruiser docked at the International Dock on the 7th instant." It is evident, therefore, that the competition of the Kiangan Arsenal is largely a vain creation of the mind. The Chinese Government find it desirable to send their warships to the International Dock in preference to the Kiangan Arsenal that is surely an indication that the fears of the pessimists who foresaw the speedy downfall of the Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Company may safely be disregarded. Endeavours were also made to prove that although Mr. Koff was a director of the new Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Co. and was therefore likely to bring the large shipping interests which his firm controls to the service of the Company, the greatest amount of German ship-repairing and engineering would be placed in the hands of German firms at Kiaochow. This argument also is squelched; for, on the 14th of March last, the German man-of-war Hilfs was docked at Shanghai, cleaned and repaired. Here then is another instance why confidence should be retained in the Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Company. With reference to this Company we may expect at an early date the official announcement that the old Farnham, Lloyd Co. has been reconstructed with new articles under the name of the Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Company, Ltd. Readers will remember the resolution for the re-construction of the Company, and it is consequently unnecessary to enter into details on that point now, except to say that the new Company is to commence operations on the 1st proximo. It is to be presumed that the new articles have been registered under the Companies Ordinance of Hongkong, and it may be expected that shareholders will be served with a notice to the effect that the resolutions passed at the extraordinary meeting and adopted at the confirmatory meeting will take effect on the 1st prox. In this event the directors are required to give the shareholders a clear fourteen days' notice, so that the announcement as to the registration of the new Company must be made on Tuesday at the latest, if operations are to begin on the 1st of May. In the opinion of several shareholders there is a possibility that the question of reducing the capital of the Company will once again be brought forward by the new board of directors. It is contended that the property market in Shanghai is, at the moment, far more favourable than when the scheme was first mooted about this time last year. We have no positive ground for suggesting that a reduction of the capital will be proposed by the new board, but if such be the case it is anticipated that no difficulty will be experienced in securing the £1,100,000 wherewith to return to the shareholders a sum of 20 taels per share of what is generally believed to be the over-capitalised amount of the amalgamated docks at Shanghai. It can be assumed with a reasonable degree of certainty that the valuable asset in the Old Dock would provide security for any advance which the directors of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation might grant to enable the Company to make the return of capital suggested. We believe that such a return would be generally welcomed by the shareholders, and it would relieve the Company of the burden of earning larger profits in order to maintain the dividend on a proportionately larger capital.

WEATHER FORECASTS.

The majority of people are inclined to scoff at the weather prophet, but withal he continues to thrive, and his very persistency may bring his detractors to his side in the course of time. From the Report of the Director of the Hongkong Observatory for last year, it appears that a comparison is made daily between the forecast issued and the actual conditions which follow. In 1905 the results of that comparison were: Success 56 per cent.; partial success 33 per cent.; failure 1 per cent.; partial failure 10 per cent. Following the method used in meteorological offices and taking the sum of total and partial success as a measure of success, and the sum of total and partial failure as a measure of failure, it follows that 89 per cent. of the weather forecasts were successful in 1905. No doubt this is very satisfactory from the scientific point of view, but the ordinary man requires something more. For instance, it would be well to know what the Observatory officials mean by "partial success," and when they account a forecast a "partial failure." To the commonplace individual, the weather forecast is of comparatively slight interest, but to the mariner it is of supreme importance, especially in the case of those who are unacquainted with the coast conditions. In this connection an appendix, entitled "Fogs on the Coast of China," compiled by Mr. F. G. Figg, is of value, showing as it does the variation in fog conditions in the vicinity of Hongkong and around the coast generally. Mr. Figg states that "when the mean percentage of the whole of the stations is taken, April proves to be the foggiest month, 25 per cent. of the days being foggy, and September has the least fog, viz. 1 per cent. But the time of the occurrence of the maximum varies with the latitude, the S. coast recording the maximum in March, and Shantung and the Gulf of Pechili between June or July." After describing the weather conditions which tend to the creation of foggy weather the writer observes: "To the navigator the practical importance of the results arrived at is this, that about the beginning of the year whenever it is known that low pressure areas exist over China or adjacent waters he may expect to find more or less fog along the coast, its occurrence becoming more and more frequent and its character probably denser, until the period of the year when the maximum of fog obtains, is reached on the different parts of the coast." Fogs covering the most extensive areas of the coast on the same day were most frequent in April, except over the area from the Yangtze to Shantung and the Gulf of Pechili when May shows the greatest percentage. April is seen to be a very bad month along the stretch of coast comprised by the Formosa Channel and mouth of the Yangtze, the prevalence of fog on the same day being very frequent over the whole area. After April it seldom happens that fog embraces the S. coast and Formosa Channel areas at the same time, but they continue till about the middle of June in the area comprised by the Formosa Channel and the Yangtze districts, and they disappear still later in the section of the coast comprised by the estuary of the Yangtze and the Shantung districts. After the end of July there are practically no fogs covering extensive sections of the coast on the same day. It is in January that they begin to increase again. From the table compiled it appears that much more fog is found a few miles seaward of the river mouths than at the ports on the rivers a little inland. The main point in the report, however, is the weather forecasts, and nothing is said as to whether the Director is entirely satisfied with the results achieved in 1905. We are left to infer that because 56 per cent. were successful and 33 per cent. partially so the Observatory has fulfilled its purpose. As a matter of fact, few concern themselves with the existence of such an institution, except in the typhoon season, and then the Observatory's observations are of real value.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

THE German mail of the 13th March was delivered in London on the 11th inst.

THE Hon. Mr. Edward Osborne has been re-appointed member of the Medical Board.

MR. Bennett Burleigh (war-correspondent) has been struck down with an attack of double pneumonia and lies in a critical condition.

LIEUT.-COL. C. S. SPARKES, R.A.M.C., has been appointed member of the Sanitary Board, in place of Lieut.-Col. C. L. Josling, R.A.M.C., resigned.

THE next criminal sessions of the Supreme Court will be held on Wednesday, the 18th inst., at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

SIR Arthur Nicolson, the British delegate at the Morocco Conference, has received the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George for his services at Algiers.

MR. T. ASANO, President of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, proposes to establish a joint stock company, with a capital of Yen 1,500,000, in order to improve the harbour and port of Yokkaichi.

THE Lady Superior of the Roman Catholic Mission at Kumamoto, Sister Marie Colombe, has been decorated by H. I. M. the Emperor with the Order of Merit for her services in alleviating the sufferings of lepers since 1889.

GOVERNMENT proposes to erect a public latrine on the piece of ground at Tsim-Sha-Tsui bounded on the north and east by War Department land, on the south by a lane adjoining Kowloon Inland Lot 9-9, and on the west by Macdonnell Road.

A BERLIN naturalist uses his morning cup of coffee as a barometer. If the sugar be dissolved undisturbed, air bubbles rise to and remain on the surface. If they form a frothy mass, clear, fine weather can be reckoned on. If the froth collects in a ring round the edge of the cup, showers may be expected.

COMPULSORY swimming for all children over ten years of age, except those medically certified as unfit, has been adopted by the Beckenhams Education Committee.

JULES Souche, a Paris fireman, fell fifty feet from a ladder, while rescuing an aged lady from a burning building without receiving any serious injuries. The old lady fell on top of him, and beyond shock also escaped unharm.

"YOU are charged with having a quantity of illicit opium in your house," said Mr. F. A. Hazeland to a defendant this morning at the Police Court. "No, I have not," replied the Chinaman. "The excise officer put it there. I saw with my own eyes. I don't smoke." He was fined $75 nevertheless.

IN consequence of several complaints being made to the police by both local and naval men of the blocking of the landing to our wharves by sampans, the police went out on Thursday and secured several sampan owners who were brought up at the Police Court this morning and charged with obstruction. They were each fined $5 and cautioned.

WARAN Das, an Indian hawker, No. 34, Elgin Road, Kowloon, figured in the dock at the Magistrate's Court this morning, being charged with stealing from his employers 40 rolls of silk, 12 rolls of grass cloth, 10 dozen handkerchiefs, etc., and $200 in hard cash; total value, $4,000, on or about the 11th instant. The defendant denied the charge. Inspector Langley, who prosecuted, asked for a remand. The case was accordingly adjourned until Tuesday next.

THE launch of the steam-ship Loong-wo, which has been built by the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company to the order of the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company, will take place on Wednesday, 18th inst., at 5 p.m. The Loong-wo is intended for the Yangtze trade, and as an evidence of the interest which is being manifested in this trade it may be noted that the Li Fong, belonging to the Messageries Reunis, arrived at Hongkong the other day, en route to Shanghai, and she will also be employed on the Yangtze. The Li Fong, which is a sister ship of a vessel (the Lima)—belonging to the same firm—already plying on the Yangtze, left yesterday for Shanghai.

THE final association football match for the Soldiers' Club Challenge Shield was held on Club football ground at Happy Valley on Thursday afternoon. The finalists were West Kents and the Royal Engineers. Both teams played a good game but were greatly hampered by the slippery condition of the ground. The West Kents were, however, quicker in taking the ball, and when half-time was called they were leading by a single goal. On changing sides the Engineers attacked their opponents' citadel, but they were entirely out of luck in piloting the leather home. The West Kents secured their second goal, and won a good match by two goals to nil.

A REUTER telegram, published in the Straits Times, says: "The inquiry into the Scots Guards ragging case has been opened. Lieut. Kennedy (the officer ragged) stated that Lieut. D. Hamilton, C. Hamilton, Harford, and Joffe testified that he was on the charge of being in a filthy condition, and for telling the Colonel a lie. They afterwards stripped him, drenched him with motor-oil, and half smothered him with jam. He admitted association with a woman, Colonel Cathbert stated that the surgeon notified Kennedy's condition to him. He understood that Kennedy had some skin disease on him before this. The Colonel admitted having declared, in disgusted manner, that it was a matter for the subalterns to settle. But, by saying this, he only meant moral pressure. Later despatches stated: Surgeon-Major Whiston testified that he was suffering from litch. Three orderlies and two army doctors testified to his cleanliness. Lieutenant-Colonel G. J. Cathbert accepted all the responsibility of punishing Lieutenant Kennedy. The inquiry has now been closed.

SAILORS IN TROUBLE.

LIVELY SCENES IN HONGKONG SHOPS.

JAMES O'Dell, able seaman, H.M.S. Kent, was charged before Mr. F. A. Hazeland, at the Police Court this morning, with assaulting a shopkeeper at No. 102, Queen's Road East, on the night of the 12th instant. When asked what he had to say, O'Dell said he had too much beer in him and could not remember what occurred on Thursday night. Evidence was heard to the effect that defendant entered the shop and knocked down a table containing crockery ware. When spoken to, defendant picked up a rice basin and flung it at his head. He failed to hit the target, so Oakley used his fist on the Chinaman. A policeman was called and defendant "went" for the policeman but was afterwards arrested. His Worship in imposing a fine of $11.80—which included compensation for damage done in the shop—remarked that he took into consideration Oakley's good character on board ship.

A BAD SHOT.

JAMES EDWARD OAKLEY, stoker, H.M.S. Kent, was the next to face the Court in answer to four charges: (1) behaving in a disorderly manner while drunk in an eating-house at No. 229, Queen's Road Central last night, (2) damaging property in the shop, (3) assaulting a Chinese policeman, and (4) assaulting the shopkeeper. The defendant pleaded guilty to the charges. The complainant was called and he said that Oakley entered the shop on Thursday night and knocked down a table containing crockery ware. When spoken to, defendant picked up a rice basin and flung it at his head. He failed to hit the target, so Oakley used his fist on the Chinaman. A policeman was called and defendant "went" for the policeman but was afterwards arrested. His Worship in imposing a fine of $11.80—which included compensation for damage done in the shop—remarked that he took into consideration Oakley's good character on board ship.

MAIL ESTREATED.

ROBERT ROBSON, seaman, U.S.S. Monmouth, was arrested on Friday night for behaving in a riotous and disorderly manner whilst drunk in Queen's Road Central. At the Central Station he was released on $10 bail. This morning he failed to turn up in answer to the charge and his bail was ordered to be estreated by Mr. Hazeland.

SIR ARTHUR MOORE.

VISITS GOVERNOR MONTENEGRO

AT MACAO.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

MACAO, 12th April, 1906.
The first visit to Macao of the new Commander-in-Chief of the British Naval Squadron in China was made on Wednesday. At six o'clock in the evening that day H.M.S. Alacrity, flying the flag of His Excellency Vice-Admiral Sir Arthur W. Moore, anchored in the roadstead. At ten o'clock this forenoon the Admiral landed in the inner harbour of Macao at what is known as the old Naval Station pier. Early in the morning the river gunboat Moorhen steamed out from her moorings to the Alacrity in the outer harbour; the Admiral having embarked on board the Moorhen, she returned to Macao.

At the wharf to receive the distinguished visitor a guard of honour, under an officer of captain's rank, was posted. Sir Arthur Moore on landing was received with all the honours due to his rank, and then inspected the force, accompanied by his aide-de-camp and the Commander of the Alacrity, the British Admiral, attended by the Portuguese Chief of Staff, Captain Damao de Meneses of the Artillery, proceeded to Government House on a formal visit to the Governor of the Colony, Senhor Marinho de Montenegro. Another guard of honour in command also of a Captain awaited Sir Arthur Moore's arrival at the gubernatorial residence. The honours accorded the British visitor are what are equivalent to those given in Portugal to a General of Division.

After the usual exchange of courtesies the Admiral and the British officers returned aboard the Alacrity in port.

At eleven in the forenoon the Governor returned the Admiral's visit on board the British gunboat. At 1 p.m. the Admiral returned to the Alacrity, which weighed anchor and steamed out in the direction of Canton. Had the Admiral not left to-day and had prolonged his stay at this port, His Excellency would have been entertained at a banquet at Government House. The members of the Macao Club are entertaining their friends at dinner on Easter Sunday and it was the intention of the committee to invite the British Admiral and his suite to honour the Club with their presence at the function.

THE CHEKWAN EXCURSIONS.

CHINESE ANCESTOR-WORSHIPING.

THE annual pilgrimage of Chinese to Chekwang to visit the tombs of their ancestors, and to do homage to their forefathers, commenced on Thursday, and is continuing daily until Monday next, when the last excursion will be made. Up to and including to-day's departures, it is estimated that something like 10,000 Chinese have made the pilgrimage, and it is anticipated that some 5,000 will avail themselves of the remaining two days' excursions.

Yesterday, Good Friday, being a public holiday, the opportunity was taken advantage of by some 400 Europeans to make the trip and see what was to be seen, though the weather considerably marred the pleasure of the outing. The early part of the day was fine and clear, and good weather was anticipated, but those anticipations, unfortunately for those concerned, were not realized, as about noon the weather thickened and heavy clouds loomed up, and ere long discharged their contents in drizzling torrents, so that it turned out a very wet festival for the participants, the majority of the Europeans, no doubt, being sorry they went.

RIFLING A BLUEJACKET'S POCKETS.

TWO Chinamen, who are unable to give a satisfactory account of themselves, were brought before Mr. F. A. Hazeland this morning, charged with rifling the pockets of an American blue-jacket on Queen's Statue wharf on the 12th instant. Two independent witnesses said that at 11.45 a.m., on the day in question, they saw four Chinamen kneeling over the prostrate body of an American blue-jacket and going through his pockets. When they saw that they had been discovered the four men took to their heels. A chase ensued and two men were arrested, one by a British warrant officer and the other by an Indian civilian. Inspector Warnock said that the defendants had been in the Colony for over a year and during that period were never known to have been employed. Mr. Hazeland adjourned the case for further inquiries to be made as regards the characters of the defendants.

KAISER Singh, a watchman employed at the Sikh Temple at Morrison Hill Gap, was charged with being in possession of a sword-stick without the necessary permit from the police. Another Indian who had recently arrived from Shanghai gave information to the police, for Kaiser, in a quarrel with him in the temple, threatened to do something rash with the weapon. Mr. Hazeland imposed a fine $15, and ordered that the stick be forfeited.

The Hague Peace Conference.

LONDON, 11th April.
The United States, supported by France, has asked Russia to postpone the Hague conference, to prevent it clashing with the Pan-American congress at Rio de Janeiro.

German Diplomatic Appointment.

Baron von Goltz, now at the Peking Legation, has been appointed minister to Columbia.

The Eruption of Vesuvius.

Outgassing is smothered in ashes and the population of 200 has perished.

The volcano resumed activity last night and is now showering sulphur and sand.

Torre del Greco and Torre Annunziata are cut off from Naples. Several correspondents who were there were unable to leave.

Later.

The country for miles around Vesuvius presents pictures of a horrible grey desolation; no vestige of green remains and all the towns and villages are more or less buried some six feet under the ashes, recalling the disaster at Pompeii.

The estimates of the total death toll vary between 500 and 800.

The last accounts are not reassuring, and the whole region is under a dense pall.

Vesuvius is invisible, and frequent hurricanes of rain, mixed with stones and ashes occur.

GERMAN STATESMAN HERE.

VISIT OF THE SECRETARY FOR AGRICULTURE.

Baron von Sternberg, secretary of State for Agriculture in Germany, arrived in Hongkong on Thursday, accompanied by his suite. His Excellency is on a tour round the world, and it is stated that his sole object is health and pleasure. If anything meets his eye which in his opinion should be applied to the German colonies then, of course, he will make a note of it. But the primary intention is to see the world and enjoy life. Baron von Sternberg is a well-known figure in the German Reichstag. His experience of parliamentary affairs dates back to the days when Prince Bismarck—the man of blood and iron—was at the height of his glory, when he was at the zenith of his power, when he was not merely the man behind the throne but practically the throne itself. The Baron was on the best of terms with the fierce old fire-eater and held a post in his Government. For several years the Baron has been secretary of State for Agriculture, and all though that is a post which does not bring him into prominence in the outer world his ability is highly appreciated in his native land, and personally he is greatly esteemed. Baron von Sternberg is no longer a young man in his policy of travelling round the world in the commodious passenger steamers of to-day, in order to recuperate his health, might be followed with advantage by many who are content to paddle in the waters washing the Riviera, being unaware, probably, of pleasures of a voyage to the "glorious Orient." His Excellency and suite proceeded to Canton last night and will return to Hongkong in time to catch the Manchuria by which they will proceed via Shanghai and Japan to America.

THE PREHISTORICS AT "SOCCER."

The weather clerk was entirely to blame for the sparse attendance that assembled on the Hongkong Football Club ground to witness the annual football match of the "Prehistorics." Jack Tan and Tommy Atkins were not lacking in their attendance and the match was packed. The humour of the prehistorics was great, while the baker and the chimney-sweep created roars of laughter. The "Scotchman," the doctor, his two ambulance bearers, and the policeman's doings during the progress of the "football match," and the remedy the doctor gave to winded players, were side-splitting. Of course, they won the "silver" shield and the "cup," which was inscribed for their before the match started. The presentation of these gifts by a lady visitor was very amusing, after which the prehistorics were ordered to "fall in" and, headed by the "band," marched home.

THE "EMPEROR" LINE.

"I DID" BRINGS SILVER BRICKS TO HONGKONG.

The steamship Empress of India, belonging to the C.P.R. line, which arrived at Hongkong on Wednesday, brought a record cargo from Vancouver to the East. Part of her cargo was a shipment of silver bullion in bricks, from Trail, consigned to the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. There were 38 bricks in the consignment, and each brick was valued at about $2,000. It is remarked in a Vancouver paper that the record cargo carried by the Empress of India stands out in marked contrast to the cargo carried by the Alyssinia, the first vessel which travelled from Vancouver to the Far East. The Alyssinia's cargo on that occasion, to quote our contemporary, "consisted of three bundles of shingles and a dead Chinaman. She lost for her operators $800,000 that year. Next year there was great talk of the coming of the Chinese Exclusion Act, and the Alyssinia made up the $800,000 lost and stood some to the good besides." It is stated that there is plenty more cargo waiting for Empress boats at Vancouver.

A CURIOUS scarf-pin worn by a Liverpool man is a petrified human eye, set in a gold frame. The present owner of this singular ornament found it in Peru while he was on an exploring tour in the land of the Incas with a party of scientists.

ALLEGED TROUBLE AT SHUN-TAK.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN CLANSMEN.

It is reported that a Chinese merchant, a native of Shun-tak, who arrived in the Colony yesterday from his home, has been spreading rumours that trouble is brewing in that locality. He is stated to have said that an uprising in Shun-tak is expected during the 4th moon (May), and that a certain person is not killed before that time there is little prospect of the present tension abating. About a fortnight ago some difference of opinion arose between two clans in the district, and it terminated in the death of a well-known villager. Since that time many attempts are alleged to have been made to avenge the death in question. A few days ago, the alleged murderer of the villager, despatched a letter to the village of his rival and offered to pay 2,000 taels as compensation for the death of their man, provided no further attempts were made on his own life. The opposing party emphatically refused to receive any "blood money," just before the departure of the Shun-tak merchant for this port, a party was appointed to take summary measures against the supposed murderer, but no news has been received as to whether they were successful in their hunting expedition. The Shun-tak Magistrate, we are informed, is taking no notice of the present condition of things.

THE COMING CRICKET SEASON.

The N.C. Daily News writes editorially: "Summer is upon us," says an old poet. Already on our playing fields there is vernal promise of coming sport. Nature herself is laying a carpet for King Cricket and his devotees to frolic on. That the young man's fancy sometimes turns to other things than love is plain from the attention now being given to preparation for the outdoor games of the warmer weather in which cricket is easily monarch of all. Less than a month from now bats and balls will once more be in daily requisition. The Senior Club has already held its annual meeting, at which we note there were various points of interest brought forward, notably the question of the engagement of a professional. The Chairman informed the meeting that, though at the moment, nothing definite had been settled respecting this very desirable addition to the Club's attractions, the matter had not been shelved. There can be no two opinions respecting the advantage that would accrue to Shanghai cricket were a professional of the right sort to be imported, but it is of the first importance both for the Club and for the man himself that he should be such a one as would be able to impart instruction and at the same time stand firmly against the temptations that would infallibly fall to his lot in such a place as this. In the first place, he should be unquestionably a total abstainer. Shanghai is a thirsty place in summer, and to a newcomer, especially to one thrown into the companionship of so many young men under such drouthy conditions, the risk of going that easy road to perdition via the bar would be more than ordinarily great. Then something would have to be found for the new man to do during the winter. Needless suggestions could be made to meet this difficulty, and the Committee have doubtless before them various methods of meeting the requirements. There seems to be no reason why a professional should not divide his time between the two main clubs.

The Recreation Club is, if anything, in greater need of skilled direction than the S.C.C., many of whose members are old public school boys from home, where they had the advantage of trained superintendence from their early days. For the coming year, however, we hear there is promise of mutually good cricket on the junior ground. The Wallace are still here, as ready as ever to defend a wicket or to take it. Turnbull, we hope, will be in his best form as one of the most useful all-round cricketers that Shanghai has known for a good round score of years. Gaulty is expected to be faster than ever, and Conolly no less tricky. When to these are added the two Vetches, the two Milners, Offendens, and a promising youngster or two, it will be seen that the senior club may have its work cut out in the three or four matches which will in all probability be arranged. There is, therefore, promise of good cricket without going abroad for it. What the Eleven v. Twenty-two match on the S.C.C. ground will produce in the shape of new blood remains to be seen. The older players are so well known that it is unnecessary to refer further to them. They have always had the double advantage over the S.C.C. of having more players to pick from, and for the reason before mentioned, a somewhat better average of player.

But the hope of the season is that some one or more of the inter-club matches which fell through last year may become certainties during 1906. If we were sure that Hongkong would come here, we might accept the proposal of the northern club and send a team to Tientsin, or better still to Weihaiwei, to which Tientsin might come. There could then be the triangular series similar to those held at Hongkong. Later in the year an effort should be made to get, in addition to a visit from the Crown Colony, another from United Japan, so that a similar series of matches might be played here at Shanghai. We should then have had a season brimful of interest. What Tientsin can do is quite unknown to us. Some old Shanghai-landers are there who are capable of pretty accurately known, but amongst the army men there may be talent which would surprise us, and it is possible that Peking might be able to add a man or two. So little has been heard here of late years respecting the cricket strength of Japan that they too would be equally dark horses if they came over.

It occurs to us that there is one matter in which the senior club might well take a leaf out of the book of the junior, and that is in catering for the many old stagers whose love of cricket has outlived their lixismness. For such the S.C.C. provides ample amusement in the shape of lawn bowls, a game as good in its way and far more ancient than cricket. Why should not the S.C.C. do the like? We are inclined to think that a good many of the "non-playing" members would appreciate such a new departure, and an additional flip would doubtless accrue from the inter-club matches which would be sure to follow. Ample pace, ample funds, and ample membership would ensure success.

ENRAGED VICEROY SHUM.

A POLICY OF IMPROVEMENTS.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

Canton, 13th April.

Every little while Viceroy Shum is giving evidence of his progressiveness. He is evidently in earnest in the work he has undertaken. His latest departure is road building. I have frequently called attention to the activity shown in matters military. It is well known that the Viceroy wants and intends to have an army which will better represent the importance of South China. He wants 24,000 foreign drilled troops and he intends to have them, any one going out from the East gate of the city will be impressed with the energy displayed in military affairs. Barracks have been springing up everywhere. The most important centre seems to be at Yin Lung about five miles from the East gate. Here barracks have been built capable of accommodating from six to ten thousand men. At the foot of Lean Dog mountain there is a level piece of ground suitable for a parade ground and, daily drill is carried on. The raw material is worked into shape. There is also a good range for rifle practice, and the men are being taught to shoot. The road connecting these barracks with the city, while good as roads in China go, is narrow. The Viceroy has determined to have a road suitable for the requirements of his new and growing army. He has issued orders for a wide modern road to be constructed. The survey has been made, and the line staked out and work will be begun immediately. The road will be between fifteen and twenty feet wide and about five miles long. I know of no other road about Canton. Narrow winding foot paths everywhere but there is nothing that should be dignified by the name of road. It is to be hoped that this is but the first of many good roads soon to be built around Canton.

SINGAPORE SCHEMES.

Recently we wrote under the caption "Singapore Schemes," a criticism of the proposal to improve the harbour of that port at a cost of something like one and a quarter million pounds sterling. In quoting that editorial the Eastern Daily Mail says: "Under the above heading, the Hongkong Telegraph expresses, in a conservative way, the opinion which prevails among a majority of the business men of this Colony in regard to our proposed harbour works and other ambitious schemes. The answer of Government to the argument of the Telegraph's leader writer would doubtless be that Hongkong naturally objects to the immense development of the port of Singapore which is now proposed, but this reply would most certainly fail to account for the hearty endorsement which the views expressed in the leader, which we quote herewith in extenso, will meet among the responsible business men of Singapore." It is satisfactory to learn that our views are substantially endorsed by the business community of Singapore and the Telegraph's Government of that Colony may be disregarded by those who are interested in the welfare of that port.

UNFORTUNATE AMERICANS.

ANOTHER MAGNATE IN A JAPANESE PRIGAS.

American magnates visiting this country, says the Kobe Herald, appear to be rather unfortunate in their experiences of Japanese crowds. Like Mr. E. H. Harriman, who was unintentionally hustled at Tokio at the time of the disturbances in the capital last September, Mr. Schiff, the well known New York banker, who is at present in this country, has been coming into purely accidental contact with a Japanese mob in angry mood. It appears that Mr. Schiff was proceeding from Kozu to Miyashima by the electric tramway on the 3rd inst., when the car was attacked by a number of villagers from Sayno who were carrying a portable shrine. The Tramway Company, it is explained, had been in the habit of making an annual contribution toward the celebration of the village festival, which falls on April 3, but this year the gift had been discontinued. A good deal of local indignation had been caused by this circumstance, and a number of police were drafted to the vicinity from the Odawara Police Station in anticipation of hostilities. Fortunately, the police were able to prevent any damage being inflicted on the car in which Mr. Schiff was travelling, but two of the policemen were severely injured in the struggle. It may be hoped that the American papers will not magnify this incident into another evidence of Japanese hostility to the people of the United States.

AN ABSURD STORY.

THE AMERICAN MINISTER'S WIFE IN POLITICS.

The Mainichi's correspondent at the Chinese capital sends a report, which requires to be received with a good many grains of salt, concerning an incident which is alleged to have happened at an entertainment given by the Empress Dowager to the wives of the foreign representatives at Peking, a few days ago. According to the correspondent's story, Mrs. Rockhill, the wife of the American Minister, in the course of conversation with Her Majesty, was bold enough to suggest to the Empress that she would be wise to hand over the reins of Government to the Emperor and devote herself to the care of her health and the enjoyment of her declining years. It is said that the Empress took the hint in good part, but replied that, owing to the unsatisfactory state of the Emperor's health, she feared that some time would have to elapse before she could enjoy the repose recommended by Mrs. Rockhill. The Mainichi, in commenting on its correspondent's message, remarks that it is doubtful if Mrs. Rockhill is, in fact, at Peking.

BOXER RISING IN HUNAN.

THREATS TO EXTERMINATE FOREIGNERS.

[From Our Correspondent.]

Canton, 13th April.

Native papers report that a few days ago a large body of Boxers, numbering fully 7,000, gathered at a place called Sai-ping in Hunan, hoisting a banner on which were inscribed the characters "Free China and exterminate the foreigner." Viceroy Chang Chih-tung of the Liang Hu provinces at once despatched a body of troops comprising 2,000 infantry, 500 cavalry, and two batteries of artillery by the Lu-Han railway to the scene, and soon dispersed the Boxers.

THEATRE BLOWN DOWN.

The day before yesterday there was a heavy thunderstorm in the Sanai district and during a violent squall a theatre was blown down and a small fort was damaged.

HONGKONG SPORTSMEN DISAPPOINTED.
Football and hockey teams arrived from Hongkong this morning to play off the return matches against Canton, but the rainy weather will probably prevent the games from being played.

SINGAPORE AND ITS SANITATION.

MR. F. A. COOPER, C.M.G., NAMED AS A MEMBER OF THE COMMISSION.

The following from a Colombo paper, would appear to be the result of some inquiries made of Dr. Middleton, when he passed through on leave homeward the other day:—

The death-rate of Singapore is rising, and the Governor, Sir John Anderson, has been keenly interested in seeking for a remedy. The death-rate reaches 42 per 1,000; but it is admitted the census figures are defective, so that the exact percentage is unknown.

It was at first proposed to appoint a Committee, and then a Commission; and finally it was decided to have a Commission of outside experts. For different reasons it was found that the Medical Officers of Bombay and Calcutta were not available, but in Singapore a few days ago it was stated, on what seemed reliable authority, that Professor Simpson, of King's College, London, and the Hon. Mr. F. A. Cooper, our Director of Public Works, were to be the members of the Commission. No confirmation of this information is yet to hand, and the rumour has not appeared in the Singapore papers; but the gentlemen named would be excellent men for the work.

Mr. W. J. R. Simpson has been Professor of Hygiene in King's College, since 1897, and is editor of the Journal of Tropical Medicine and lecturer at the School of Tropical Medicine. He was Medical Officer of Calcutta from 1886 to 1897; Member of the Government Commission to inquire into a dysentery and enteric in South Africa in 1901; and Government Commissioner to inquire into the causes and continuance of plague in Hongkong in 1902. Mr. Cooper has had valuable experience in Hongkong and in Colombo, and probably is already acquainted with Professor Simpson. No confirmation is obtainable, however, as Mr. Cooper is away on tour.

The drainage of Singapore is, surface drainage, and the city is very flat, so that improvements would be costly. The expense may be further increased by proposals to housewrenize the city, and to separate the large number of small houses that are built back to back. Much of the property is held on leasehold from the Government for 99 years, and as about two-thirds of the period has in some cases expired it may be possible to reduce the cost of acquiring land by giving the occupiers statutory grants for the portions of their properties not required for this public improvement. The reform of the sanitation of the city will become more costly every year it is postponed; and, as the Colony, the city, and the port are flourishing, there can be no time so fitting as the present for coping with a growing problem. Should the proposed Commission recommend a definite scheme, however expensive, the Governor and his advisers will have a strong case to lay before the Legislature.

It is reassuring for Colombo to know that although concealed cases of plague are discovered nearly every month, the scourge of India and Hongkong has never broken out in epidemic form in Singapore. Dr. Middleton, who has been the Medical Officer of the Municipality for over a decade, believes that plague is not a public menace within about eight degrees of the equator on either side—a distance that places Ceylon in the safe area. We trust nothing will ever occur to upset this belief.

MORE PIRACY.

(7th April.)

Repeatedly we have called attention to the necessity for action by the Powers in the suppression of piracy on the coast of China. For the last few months many cases of dastardly attacks upon innocent traders have been reported, and now we record to-day another instance in which a well-known missionary has been the victim of the pirates' depredations. In this case the piratical attack occurred near the village of Tung, in the San-hing district, about eighty miles from Canton by water and thirty-five miles as the crow flies. The robbery showed that there had been skill and conception in its planning and execution, and the probability is that these people were in league with the numerous bands of pirates which infest the delta of the Canton river. Dr. C. R. Hager, head of the American Board Mission in Hongkong, was the victim, and, as he states, had it not been that no resistance was shown by all those in the vicinity the result would in all likelihood have been serious for the reverend gentleman. The pirates were well armed, and the method by which they pursued their attack is similar in all respects to one recorded in these columns about three years ago, when a foreign member of the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs was the victim. The pirates began by firing at the passengers, then boarded the boats and removed whatever they could find in the way of valuables. In the present case it is a noteworthy fact that the pirates in their search for goods were particularly anxious to discover the presence of banknotes amongst the passengers. Had these men been raw recruits, or merely the native marauders that range along the boundaries of their limited territory, it would be understood that they would not realize the value of paper currency, and therefore since the band which attacked Dr. Hager appeared to know the value of this easily convertible form of money, it may be surmised that they were old hands at the game, and would not burden themselves with unnecessary gear. It is satisfactory to know that in this case the U.S. Consul-General has taken the matter in hand, but this is only the culminating instance of a series of depredations which we have reported. Energetic as the present American representative in Canton may be, we submit that the time has arrived when compensation from the Chinese Government is not all that should be demanded. In their own interest the Powers are bound to intervene to claim adequate protection for the vessels and persons of their countries, and to take in hand themselves the repression of such crimes as make the delta of the Canton rivers a source of the utmost insecurity and danger at the present time. It would appear that the Provincial authorities of China and especially of the Kwang provinces are incapable of maintaining order and good government, and therefore it behooves the Powers to exercise that authority which will be a guarantee for the traders of their nationality, and at the same time rid China of the pests who wax fat on the incapacity of their own Government. At all events there is no denying the fact that some radical change must be made in the method of controlling the waterway between Canton and the ports in the West and North Rivers, if life is to be protected and trade facilitated.

"CHINA'S SORROW"

The Hwangho, or Yellow River, has well been named "China's Sorrow," and the suffering and loss it has occasioned are incalculable. The time must come—sooner, it is hoped, than later—when the problem of this river will be seriously investigated. Such is the concluding statement by Capt. W. F. Tyler, Coast Inspector, in his "Notes on the Hwangho, or Yellow River, including extracts from a report on the condition of the south bank immediately below Lo-k'ou." In the early part of 1903 Capt. Tyler was instructed by the Inspector General of Customs to proceed to Shantung and render some advisory services to His Excellency the Governor of that province in connection with waterways. The service required proved to be in regard to the Hsiao-ching-ho and its navigational possibilities. The result of Capt. Tyler's exhaustive investigations is now published in the form of a Yellow Book in the special series of the Imperial Maritime Customs' valuable publications and for a copy of which we are indebted to the local Commissioner of Customs. The report describes the condition of this important waterway, the immediate measures of protection which should be taken within the limits of ordinary expenditure; the measures which can be undertaken by an extraordinary expenditure, and other necessary works. Under the last section Capt. Tyler says: "It should be remembered that in several particulars of paramount importance the condition of the Hwangho is getting worse and worse: (a) the amount of silt brought down is on the increase; (b) the flood volume (at all events in the upper part) is on the increase; and (c) the low-river volume is on the decrease. This serious condition is one which we can consider, to certainly exist by reason of the steadily increasing effects of deforestation in the mountain districts. Existing torrents in the denuded hills give birth to new torrents as they score their way into the mountain sides. The rainfall and melted snow is carried faster and faster into the drainage from the country is correspondingly decreased." We are told the question of silt is the dominant factor in the problem of the Hwangho, and is the one that no one province can solve for itself. Before, too, it can be considered as a problem for definite solution, a great deal of information requires to be collected. The first and most obvious remedial scheme, it is mentioned in the report, would be to try and make the water carry the silt down to the sea—to straighten the bends by training-work and to bring the low and high river channels to sections best adapted to the volumes. The serious difficulty in the way of this is the decreasing volume of water as the sea is approached, owing to exfiltration through the permeable bed of the river. Another scheme is to take steps in the upper part of the river—in Honan, Shansi, and Shensi—to mitigate the erosion of the river banks and that of its tributaries, and by afforestation, to ameliorate the torrents, cause a more regular flow from the new denuded uplands. Such a work is of such immense magnitude and, as regards afforestation, would take so many years to have any appreciable effect, that it is to be considered as outside the limits of a scheme for the control of the Yellow River within the lifetime of the present generation. Still another scheme that has been mentioned is the formation of huge reservoirs in the mountain districts to regulate the flow of water and to act as silt-depositing basins. This idea, Capt. Tyler states in his report, has been condemned by Mr. de Rijke, on account of the vast expense, the temporary character of the remedy, and the danger. A prevalent Chinese idea—one shared, he believes, by some Europeans—is that the remedy can be obtained by clearing the mouth of the river—that it is the accumulation of debris there that restricts the flow of the water and, consequently, the bringing down of silt. The condition of the mouth of the river, however, cannot properly be looked upon as the cause of the state of affairs higher up; it is merely the result of that state. Doubtless dredging operations on a very large scale would have a good effect for a limited distance up; but even for this they would have to be continuous. Capt. Tyler's conjectural scheme which he has in his mind is as follows:

1. By training-works, which would possibly in part include low dikes which would be flooded at high river, get the low-river channel under control, and gradually bring it to the section which was best suited to the discharge of silt; lead this channel in long curves about midway between the present flood dikes—modifying these latter, however, where they were too close; encourage the deposition of silt in the immediate neighbourhood of the flood dikes by the growth of willow scrub; where the flood channel is unnecessarily wide and the flood plain sufficiently high, embank portions, and devote them to the owners of expropriated lands.

2. If a survey of the river, and its neighbourhood ascertain the position of the low lands and the relatively high; select a "low" of suitable size, say, 50 by 20 miles, as far up the river as possible and bordered as much as possible by a "high"; embank this area and expropriate the land; into this area train the low-river channel, and from it again lead the waters into the existing bed; as soon as possible reclaim the deserted river bed, fertilising it by suitable floodings, and appropriate it to the use of expropriated natives.

To summarise his considerations, Capt. Tyler says: "The Hwangho in its present condition incurs an annual expense and loss which has been roughly estimated at 5 million taels, and, in addition, there is the annual expenditure of life and suffering. But what about the conditions and risks of the future? Will these be the same as in the past? It is known for certain that the conditions are getting worse and that the dangers of the immediate future are incomparably greater than those of the past; so great are these dangers, so certain, indeed, under present methods is disaster, that the sum that could properly be spent to insure against them would be very great. But it is quite possible that these can be insured against by a sum which is no greater than that which is now annually spent—i.e., the sum of 33 millions a year, properly handled, might well suffice for the purpose. Even, however, if twice as much be required, it would be a cheap insurance." The first step is, as the Coast Inspector so clearly pointed out in his preface, for the Government to be persuaded of the urgency of the matter—of the dangers that are impending,—to be impressed with the fact that the thorough control of the river can with certainty be effected.

KOWLOON-CANTON RAILWAY.

(10th April.)

In a recent issue of the Hongkong Telegraph we were in the happy position of being able exclusively to furnish our readers with an account of the work proceeding in connection with the Kowloon-Canton railway on the British section of the line. At that time it, no doubt, came as a surprise to the majority of people to learn that not only had the surveying of the route been completed, but that work had actually been commenced at five different places, by the erection of embankments which were intended to provide suitable levels, and carry the line at a safe distance above possible inundations, and over natural obstacles. Since the publication of that news, the work on the new line has proceeded with unabated energy and, for a Government project, with unexampled vigour. The Government have been pushing on the construction of the British section at the utmost speed and, although little or nothing has come to the attention of the public through the agency or medium of the Legislative Council as representing the community, there has been no slackness in the progress of the work. Rather the reverse, for it will be found that when His Excellency the Governor has occasion at a future meeting of the Legislative Council to refer to the Kowloon-Canton railway he will be in a position to announce that the work has advanced by immense strides, and that the sums already voted towards the construction of the track have been largely exceeded. Indeed, His Excellency will, in all likelihood, ask the Council to appropriate an additional sum for the project, and that vote will be for a very considerable amount, if it is not merged in the sum of £2,000,000 sterling which, under a recent Ordinance passed by the Legislature, the Government is empowered to raise for railway purposes. We understand that work is actively proceeding at regular intervals along the route of the railway. The superintendents' office, it has been decided, will be located at Tsim-sha-tui, and already the staff is fully organised. The contractors have submitted their tenders which have been accepted and have begun operations. Some 15,000 labourers and foremen, it has been roughly estimated, will ultimately be engaged at one and the same time on the line—and it is probable that they are even now bending every effort to the speedy completion of a Government venture, which will mean so very much to Hongkong. The fact that 15,000 men will be engaged in the arduous operation of levelling the country in the New Territories through which the line will take its course, implies that great, not to say exceptional, efforts are being made to carry the project through in the shortest space of time. On this occasion, at least, no lagging spirit is being shown by those at the head of affairs, and we may take it for granted that every means to accelerate matters will continue to be adopted. This is probably the most interesting news that the people of Hongkong could obtain, for it indicates that the Government is not slow to recognise the material advantages to be derived by the early completion of the Kowloon-Canton railway, and is determined, at all hazards, to see constant communication by rail established between this Colony and the great city of Southern China.

JAPANESE POLICY IN CHINA.

A highly important and instructive interview with the Prime Minister of Japan, Marquis Saionji, on the subject of the policy at home and abroad of the recently-elected Ministry appears in the Rei Herald from the pen of Mr. Curtis, who recently passed through Hongkong. Since the present Ministry took office, the Premier, following Japanese precedent, has been studiously incommunicative, with the result that those interested in Japanese aims and objects in the immediate future have been engaged in a somewhat hopeless attempt to deduce the intentions of that country from the latest acts of the Government. On the one hand we are reassured that all the Japanese troops in Manchuria have now returned to Japan, while only one-third of the Russians have been evacuated from the Manchurian difficulty still remains. It is satisfactory to note, however, from a telegram which appears in another column, that Manchuria will be evacuated by the entire Russian forces within eighteen months. Russia has solemnly undertaken to see that promise carried into effect. Marquis Saionji was questioned as to the political outlook in Eastern Asia, and incidentally reference was made to the native outbreaks that have lately occurred in Southern China. The Marquis expressed the opinion that affairs in China and Manchuria are now in a fairly settled state, and that so far as human foresight can judge, peace in the Orient may be held to be assured for a considerable period. He regarded the recent outbreaks of lawlessness in Southern China as purely local and in no way indicative of the presence of an anti-foreign spirit in the councils of the governing authorities. Such outbreaks, deplorable though they are, he considered bound to recur; and therein, in his opinion, lay the only real menace to the peace of the East, inasmuch as it is impossible to predicate the probable policy of foreign Powers in the event of further outrages occurring. He did not consider that any of the more recent acts of rapine and murder were allied in any way with the condition of things antedating the Boxer outbreak, which was encouraged, if not instigated, by officials within the Palace. It is important to learn that a statesman of Marquis Saionji's rank should be found on the side of those who believe that the sporadic outbreaks at different places in China do not represent Chinese views as a whole, but are merely the irresponsible acts of individuals who gain temporary notoriety among their fellows by decrying the foreigners. The question as to how far the missionaries could be blamed for these occasional acts of crime was mooted. The Marquis unhesitatingly acknowledged the purity of motive of many of the missionaries, and paid a high tribute to their zeal and self-denying labours, but he thought it could not be denied that many of them go beyond their true and lawful province and indirectly meddle in political matters, sometimes affording asylum to refugees, and interfering with the course of justice and the authority of the mandarins over their own people. Coming to the question of the "open door" in Manchuria, the interviewer plainly said that misgivings prevailed in many quarters that the "open door" was intended for Japanese traders exclusively. His Excellency replied deliberately and emphatically, in these words:—"It is a distinct feature of my policy to ensure the opening of the country to all alike, irrespective of questions of nationality." This is satisfactory from the commercial point of view, and being couched in clear and definite terms should prevent the possibility of any misunderstanding on the point. It also assures foreign Governments that the Japanese Foreign Office is resolved to maintain a continuity of policy in permitting the subjects of foreign Powers to participate in the benefits flowing from the results achieved by our ally in the late war. In fine, this is a timely and valuable exposition of Japanese policy which should serve to dissipate all ambiguities which may have previously existed on the subject of Japan's position in China. As a matter of fact, the only point on which the Marquis was at all dubious was as to what should occur in the way of foreign intervention should further outbreaks of an anti-foreign character arise in China, and it is not much to say that it passeth the wit of man to forecast what would happen in such an event.

The Sinwampao learns that the British Representative at Nanchang has expressed the idea that if an enduring monument is built to the memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Kiangham in that city, the question of punishment will not be pressed.

HONGKONG PARTNERSHIP REGISTRATION.

(11th April.)

On many occasions we have pointed out the anomalous and entirely unsatisfactory state of things which exists as the result of the lack of any Registration of Partnerships Ordinance in Hongkong. Cases innumerable have been argued with endless iteration in the local Courts over the question of partnership without any perfectly equitable result being arrived at, and certainly no perfectly acceptable solution being found. Had there been a Registration of Partnerships Ordinance in force at present, the case which concluded in the Court of Bankruptcy Jurisdiction yesterday, nothing would ever have been heard of the matter in public, nor would business in many large and important firms retarded if not disorganised by the absence of principals in Court for a period of five days. It may be said that there is such a thing as voluntary registration of certain Chinese firms in the Registrar-General's Department—as was brought out in the course of the evidence submitted in the case in question—but this voluntary registration is so very limited that the benefits accruing from it are scarcely perceptible. The Chinese of the merchant class who have a real interest in trading companies are entirely in favour of registration, although certain members of that community on the Committee investigating the question of registration have expressed themselves as opposed to the idea of registration. But gauging the feelings of the merchant class in general, we can state clearly and distinctly that registration has, with a few exceptions, the support of the best representatives of that class, for they can see the benefits they would derive in defeating the machinations of men of straw who are nothing more or less than a hindrance and detriment to legitimate traders. Bench and bar, in every case of any importance, wherein the question of partnership has been involved, have expressed themselves as entirely of one mind that registration should be resorted to at the earliest moment in the interest of Hongkong. The suggestion of the Chamber of Commerce that Canton capital would be diverted from Hongkong were a policy of registration adopted is very doubtful, since Chinese, as a shrewd lot of business people, only want the opportunity to find profitable investments for their capital, and there is no gaining the fact that in Hongkong such opportunity does occur, even though a small restriction might become perceptible were registration enforced.

GAMBLING IN SIAM.

How irradicable is the love of gambling in the lower orders of the Chinese is best evidenced by the fact that, although a strict Ordinance prohibiting games of chance in the Colony has been in existence for some years, the coolies gaily and daily laugh to scorn its provisions, and gamble to their heart's content on every possible occasion. Even the tiniest children on the waterfront may be witnessed any day of the week playing some mysterious game in which coppers form the essential feature. Naturally when gangs of coolies collect together and become so absorbed in the tide of fortune that they are oblivious to mundane matters they are liable to find themselves in the clutches of the law. Our columns teem with cases in which gamblers have been caught in flagrante delicto, and in each case fines have been inflicted. But these fines seem to be considered as an additional risk in the game, in which the banker is the chief loser, if discovered, which no doubt adds to the satisfaction of the bettor when matters have been going against him. In Siam, which seeks to emulate Japan moral and material advancement, gambling is the national pastime. It attracts all classes, and more energy is thrown into an exciting gamble than would be devoted to any sort of labour whatever. But it has been the endeavour of the Siamese Government to prove that Siam is worthy of a place among the powers of the world. As a general rule when anybody suggests that Siam is a coming force in the Far East, people treat the idea with something very like derision. But Siam has been intensely in earnest, and Bangkok to-day is as Europeanised as any Eastern capital could ever attain. Moreover, there is a fleet and an army and other diversions, which bear the imprimatur of progress. Unfortunately the common people prefer to abide by the ways and customs of their predecessors, and one of the articles ranking high in their ancestral heritage is gambling. The Siamese gamble by night as well as day, and if they have the funds they live in the gaming house, no doubt to the delight of those at the head of the Farm. Now, the Government have been annoyed at this adherence to games of chance. Naturally the income derived from the Gambling Farmer has been a great consideration, for it is probably the chief item on the revenue side of the national accounts, and, however progressive and liberal-minded one may be, there is a distinct and very natural dislike to abandon, merely for the sake of a principle, or an idea—a philosophic idea, indeed, and one which comes from Europe at that—a source of income which permits of expenditure in other directions, useful and materialistic expenditure, such as the construction of roads, the installation of a water supply, the suppression of piracy, and various other improvements which only originate in the minds of practical people. And besides on a certain great festival in Siam it is the King's pleasure to allow the people to gamble for three, or perhaps it is four, days—that is to say, 72 or 96 hours without a break—in their own houses, an act of royal clemency which binds the people to the throne and reminds them that they are indeed blessed with a great potentate. The chagrin of the Gambling Farmer is a minor matter, unworthy of consideration. Yet with all this, the Siamese Government is vaguely suspicious that outside peoples think gambling is a sign of a nation's weakness, and therefore as a graceful concession to Pro Homo Publico and all his satellites every now and again a law is promulgated that in such and such a district—which appears on the map, but has never sent revenues of any sort to Court except under military compulsion, and is really a nuisance to the State, and regarding which the high officials know nothing and care remarkably less—a law is promulgated, then, that in that district gambling shall be abolished and any violation of the law shall be followed by ex-cruciating punishments. Then the Ministers are satisfied and contemplate their magnificence, their enlightenment, their more than efficiency as Government servants; while the King strikes another medal which is distributed to all who have spare room for the new adornment amid the galaxy of ornaments and decorations on their manly breasts. But even these things will not quite satisfy a critical world that Siam is advancing by leaps and bounds, so we have another batch of amended regulations which will greatly commend themselves to the public at large. Now, we are told, all public gambling-houses in Siam, outside Bangkok, will be closed. The exception is interesting, as it leads one to ask—how many gambling houses ever existed outside Bangkok? Then the following games are "absolutely" prohibited: "games involving cruelty to animals, like tying knives to the spurs of fighting cocks, or thorns to the wings of pigeons, or making fighting animals (cock-roaches for instance) drunk, or putting fire on the backs of tortoises in a race. Other forms of gambling are allowed on permits being obtained. Cock-fights, races and such like can be carried on only in places appointed by the Commissioner." It must be a wonderful people which finds delight in making cock-roaches drunk, but, of course, the cock-roaches of Siam may belong to an unusual species and only enter the lists under the compelling force of drunkenness. We quote further:—"When the Commissioner sees that people are devoting themselves to gambling and thereby neglecting their work and getting into bad habits, he is empowered to restrict the amount of gambling allowed under the permits." For three days at Krut Thai and Kurt Chiu and for four days at Songkrai permits are not required for the allowed forms of gambling. A rent has to be paid for a race-course or cock-pit. In Monthon Puket the Commissioner may empower the manager of any mine to allow the playing of Chinese dice for fixed times within the mining property, but the permits have to be paid for in the ordinary way. Always the money! Gamblers, and those in Hongkong unless they knew these things are behind the age, should know the Siamese tariff for permits in that interesting and modern country: A permit for cock-fighting, bullock-fighting, buffalo-fighting or bird-fighting will cost 10 ticals a day, and under these new regulations a day consists only [alas!] of 12 hours. For fish or cock-roach fishing the tariff is 1 tical per pen. For the ordinary gambling games that are permitted at festivals—about a score are enumerated in the schedule—the permit costs Tcs. 4 a day. Cards may be played any time, permits costing 4 ticals for the day of twelve hours and 8 ticals for the night of twelve hours. From all these regulations, framed with statesmanlike care, we may augur that there is a great future for Siam. (Hongkong legislates for rats, but these are high in the scale of vermin compared with fleas and cock-roaches.)

HONGKONG AND SINGAPORE.

(12th April.)

Rivalry between colonies is an excellent institution, which deserves the utmost encouragement, stimulating as it does the opponents to increased effort and thereby widening the horizon of both parties. Singapore has always been credited with a sneaking jealousy of the prosperity of Hongkong, the magnitude of its shipping interests, the extent of its great industrial works, and its influence as the naval base of the Far East. Of course, this jealousy, or whatever it may be termed, was scarcely worthy of a flourishing Colony such as Singapore is to-day, with its manifold interests in shipping, and the variety of its own undertakings, but it existed, and from a casual observation which appears in the Eastern Daily Mail it is clear that such a feeling remains in the heart of the Colony. In quoting our remarks with regard to the new harbour improvement scheme at Singapore, the writer suggests that the answer of the Government of the Straits Settlements to the indictment we framed against that scheme would probably be that "Hongkong naturally objects to the immense development of the port of Singapore which is now proposed." But why should the Government of Singapore, or any individual resident in that Colony holding its interests as a precious treasure, conceive such an idea? It must be evident, if the most cursory examination is made of the subject, that Singapore and Hongkong, by virtue of their relative geographical position, must inevitably stand apart as competing agents, the one flourishing in a measure correlative to the prosperity which attends the other. Singapore can never hope to challenge Hongkong's advantage as the distributing centre for South China, just as Hongkong can have no pretension to outlying Singapore from its position of distributing agent for the Dutch Colonies and the hinterland of the Straits Settlements. Indeed, the idea that Singapore could ever hope to draw from Hongkong its trade with China is not merely absurd—it is absolutely ridiculous. And the same applies to any hope that might be fatuously held that Hongkong could interfere with Singapore's trade in the Dutch Colonies. Singapore stands at the gate of Europe, while Hongkong is the terminus of the Pacific trade. There have been humorous ideas promulgated by our contemporaries in Manila, and even by functionaries of the Insular Government, that one of these fine days Manila will become the paramount port of the East, evicting both Hongkong and Singapore from their present positions, and denying them the privilege of claiming any right whatsoever to precedence as centres of distribution. But as the people of Manila are at present quaking under the thought that another port on one of the Islands may shortly be adopted as the commercial axis of the Philippines—a port with, as yet, an unpronounceable name—their arrogance may be calmly disregarded for the present. Indeed, the Manilans would probably be the first to waive the point. The fact is that Singapore is bound to capture the European trade travelling eastwards; while the Pacific trade and part of the Australian trade for South China falls naturally to the share of Hongkong. Both Hongkong and Singapore have vistas of immense prosperity stretching before them. When the Kowloon-Canton railway is completed, and Hankow is connected with Canton, the main part of the produce in the area tapped by these railways must, perforce, find its way to Hongkong to be distributed over the world. It would be impossible to estimate the increased trade which such a combination of circumstances implies for Hongkong. On the other hand, Singapore has a rich inheritance of patrons in the neighbouring Dutch Colonies and Borneo as consumers of the products landed at the southern port, while the development of Johore, the linking up of the railway, now in process of construction, between Singapore and Burma, must prove of undoubted benefit to our sister Colony, both financially and commercially. As for Siam, which stands between Singapore and Bangkok, it cannot pretend to believe that the trade between Hongkong and Bangkok can be diverted away from its natural channel. It must be clear from all these points that Hongkong and Singapore will advance and prosper in like ratio. Hongkong is interested in southern affairs to the extent of the traffic in goods flowing westwards and from China, particularly in the commerce involved by the emigration of Chinese coolies, who maintain constant communication with their friends and business acquaintances in China; while Singapore is similarly situated so far as Chinese-Malayan relations are maintained, and the eastward traffic, a matter of course, belongs to our neighbour in the south. In these circumstances the policy of "live and let live" is the best that can be adopted, at the same time remembering that each Colony must learn much from each other's methods, and by a study of each other's circumstances.

CRIME IN HONGKONG.

Hongkong's morality is distinctly on the upward grade, if we may judge from the severely statistical statement issued by the Superintendent of Victoria Gaol for the past year. It is a notorious fact that figures are by no means the best guide which we can have if we desire to form a just estimate of the crime of the Colony for a specified period, because a great deal depends not so much on the number of cases as on the character of the crimes committed. It is impossible, in the absence of any explanatory remarks by the Superintendent of the Gaol, to say whether Hongkong is improving in this respect, but it is at least noteworthy that the number of convictions for actual crime—including petty offences of every description—showed a reduction of 1,213. In 1905 there were 64 prisoners received from the military authorities as compared with 95 in the previous year, a significant reduction. Under the heading of "On remand or in default of finding surety" no less than 856 persons lost their liberty—temporarily, let us hope—during the year, which was a slight increase over the number of those who failed to find bail or were unable to give guarantees of good faith in 1904. In considering one item of the list of "prisoners received," which is the quaint official way of looking at the matter, one is inclined to ask—Are we becoming more lenient towards those who fail to pay their debts? Not so very long ago, when an individual failed to meet his obligations the creditor did not think twice over the matter. He simply clapped the debtor into prison. Nowadays, the creditor seems willing to put off the day when he must resort to the Court, hoping, no doubt, that the debtor will eventually pay up like a man—hope tells him a flattering tale; at all events there were only 49 debtors imprisoned last year as contrasted with 64 in 1904. Including those who were on remand and those unable to find security or bail, 6,227 prisoners entered Victoria Gaol last year as against 7,464 in 1904—a reduction of 1,237, giving a percentage of .057 to the estimated population, the lowest recorded for the last five years. It is noteworthy that the number of convictions from the New Territory was 169 last year or more than double that of the previous year. It does not necessarily follow that crime has increased on the mainland; the probability is that the outlying districts are better policed, with the result that crimes and offences which a few years ago would have passed unchecked are now brought to light by the vigilance of the law. No less than 3,383 persons came under the discipline of the gaol for offences not of a criminal character, and of that number 1,307 had contravened some section of the Opium Ordinance. Five beggars spent a term in gaol! The report notes that first offenders are completely separated from habitual criminals, which is satisfactory; for too often the prison officials are apt to forget that the prison exists not so much for corrective purposes as for the reclamation of the lapsed, and particularly of those who have fallen for the first time and taste the degradation of compulsory confinement. Taking it altogether there is comparatively little of interest in the report—If two births within the precincts of the prison be excepted—the only outstanding fact being the great reduction in the number of those who endured prison life for a spell during the past year.

SHANGHAI ENGINEERING AND SHIPBUILDING COMPANY.

While the question of the re-construction of S. C. Farman, Boyd & Co. was agitating the shareholders of that Company and compelling the interest of all who have been watching the trend of events in the North, we denied the assertion made by the opponents of the re-construction scheme that the very existence of the new Company was threatened by the operations of the Kiangnan Arsenal docks. It was argued that the Kiangnan Arsenal was flourishing so greatly that it would shortly have all the work required by the Chinese Government, Chinese owners and other shipping in its hands. Being a Government concern and bolstered up with Government money, the Kiangnan Arsenal could offer better terms than the Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Company. A short paragraph in the A. C. Daily News shows how fallacious that view was. It is as follows: "The American cruiser Ketchikan was undocked and a Chinese cruiser docked at the International Dock on the 7th instant. It is evident, therefore, that the competition of the Kiangnan Arsenal is largely a vain creation of the mind. If the Chinese Government find it desirable to send their warships to the International Dock in preference to the Kiangnan Arsenal that is surely an indication that the fears of the pessimists who foresaw the speedy downfall of the Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Company may safely be disregarded. Endeavours were also made to prove that although Mr. Koff was a director of the new Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Co. and was therefore likely to bring the large shipping interests which his firm controls to the service of the Company, the greatest amount of German ship-repairing and engineering would be placed in the hands of German firms at Kioochau. This argument also is squelched; for, on the 14th of March last, the German man-of-war Ulla was docked at Shanghai, cleaned and repaired. Here then is another instance why confidence should be retained in the Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Company. With reference to this Company we may expect at an early date the official announcement that the old Farman, Boyd Co. has been reconstructed with new articles under the name of the Shanghai Engineering and Shipbuilding Company, Ltd. Readers will remember the resolution for the re-construction of the Company, and it is consequently unnecessary to enter into details on that point now, except to say that the new Company is to commence operations on the 1st proximo. It is to be presumed that the new articles have been registered under the Companies Ordinance of Hongkong, and it may be expected that shareholders will be served with a notice to the effect that the resolutions passed at the extraordinary meeting will take effect on the 1st prox. In this event the directors are required to give the shareholders a clear fourteen days' notice, so that the announcement as to the registration of the new Company must be made on Tuesday at the latest, if operations are to begin on the 1st of May. In the opinion of several shareholders there is a possibility that the question of reducing the capital of the Company will once again be brought forward by the new board of directors. It is contended that the property market in Shanghai is, at the moment, far more favourable than when the scheme was first mooted about this time last year. We have no positive ground for suggesting that a reduction of the capital will be proposed by the new board, but if such be the case it is anticipated that no difficulty will be experienced in securing the £1,000,000 wherewith to return to the shareholders a sum of 20 taels per share of what is generally believed to be the over-capitalized amount of the amalgamated docks at Shanghai. It can be assumed with a reasonable degree of certainty that the valuable asset in the Old Dock would provide security for any advance which the directors of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation might grant to enable the Company to make the return of capital suggested. We believe that such a return would be generally welcomed by the shareholders, and it would relieve the Company of the burden of earning larger profits in order to maintain the dividend on a proportionately larger capital.

WEATHER FORECASTS.

The majority of people are inclined to scoff at the weather prophet, but withal he continues to thrive, and his very persistency may bring his detractors to his side in the course of time. From the Report of the Director of the Hongkong Observatory for last year, it appears that a comparison is made daily between the forecast issued and the actual conditions which follow. In 1905 the results of that comparison were: Success 56 per cent.; partial success 33 per cent.; failure 1 per cent.; partial failure 10 per cent. Following the method used in meteorological offices and taking the sum of total and partial success as a measure of success, and the sum of total and partial failure as a measure of failure, it follows that 89 per cent. of the weather forecasts were successful in 1905. No doubt this is very satisfactory from the scientific point of view, but the ordinary man requires something more. For instance, it would be well to know what the Observatory's forecast means by "partial success," and when they account a forecast a "partial failure." To the commonplace individual the weather forecast is of comparatively little interest, but to the mariner it is of supreme importance, especially in the case of those who are unacquainted with the coast conditions. In this connection an appendix entitled "Fogs on the Coast of China," compiled by Mr. F. G. Figg, is of value, showing as it does the variation in log conditions in the vicinity of Hongkong and around the coast generally. Mr. Figg states that "when the mean percentage of the whole of the stations is taken, April proves to be the foggiest month, 25 per cent. of the days being foggy, and September has the least fog, viz., 1 per cent. But the time of the occurrence of the maximum varies with the latitude, the S. coast recording the maximum in March, and Shantung and the Gulf of Pechili between June or July." After describing the weather conditions which tend to the creation of foggy weather the writer observes: "To the navigator the practical importance of the results arrived at is this, that about the beginning of the year whenever it is known that low pressure areas exist over China or adjacent waters he may expect to find more or less fog along the coast, its occurrence becoming more and more frequent until the period of the year when the maximum of fog obtains is reached on the different parts of the coast." Fogs covering the most extensive areas of the coast on the same day were most frequent in April, except over the area from the Yangtze to Shantung and the Gulf of Pechili when May shows the greatest percentage. April is seen to be a very bad month along the stretch of coast comprised by the Formosa Channel and much of the Yangtze, the prevalence of fog on the same day being very frequent over the whole area. After April it seldom happens that fog embraces the S. coast and Formosa Channel areas at the same time, but they continue till about the middle of June in the area comprised by the Formosa Channel and the Yangtze districts, and they disappear still later in the section of the coast comprised by the estuary of the Yangtze and the Shantung districts. After the end of July there are practically no fogs covering extensive sections of the coast on the same day. It is in January that they begin to increase again. From the table compiled it appears that much more fog is found a few miles seaward of the river mouths than at the ports on the rivers a little inland. The main point in the report, however, is the weather forecasts, and nothing is said as to whether the Director is entirely satisfied with the results achieved in 1905. We are left to infer that because 56 per cent. were successful and 33 per cent. partially so the Observatory has fulfilled its purpose. As a matter of fact, few of them themselves with the existence of such an institution, except in the typhoon season, and then the Observatory's observations are of real value.

THE YUNNAN FEARS.

"EVERYTHING IS AT PEACE."

IMPORTANT NEWS FROM CATHOLIC SOURCES.

We are extremely indebted to the Rev. A. Brun, Procureur, Mission Etrangere in China, for the following information, with reference to the telegram which our representative at Shanghai telegraphed on the authority of the Echo de Chine, that there was danger to Protestants in Yunnan. Rev. Father Brun writes—

"Telegram just now to hand from Yunnan says:—

"Everything is at peace."

Viscount Kodama Sakuma has been appointed to the vacancy.

GERMAN STATESMAN HERE.

VISIT OF THE SECRETARY FOR AGRICULTURE.

Baron von Sternberg, Secretary of State for Agriculture in Germany, arrived in Hongkong on Thursday, accompanied by his suite. His Excellency is on a tour round the world, and it is stated that his sole object is health and pleasure. If anything meets his eye which in his opinion should be applied to the German colonies then, of course, he will make a note of it. But the primary intention is to see the world and enjoy life. Baron von Sternberg is a well-known figure in the German Reichstag. His experience of parliamentary affairs dates back to the days when Prince Bismarck—the man of blood and iron—was at the height of his glory, when he was at the zenith of his power, when he was not merely the man behind the throne but practically the throne itself. The Baron was on the best of terms with the Emperor Frederick, and held a post in his Government. For several years the Baron has been Secretary of State for Agriculture, and although that is a post which does not bring him into prominence in the outer world his ability is highly appreciated in his native land, and personally he is greatly esteemed. Baron von Sternberg is no longer a young man and his policy of travelling round the world in the commodious passenger steamers of to-day, in order to recuperate his health, might be followed with advantage by many who are content to paddle in the waters of the River, being unaware, probably, of the pleasures of a voyage to the "glorious Orient." His Excellency and suite proceeded to Canton last night and will return to Hongkong in time to catch the Manchuria by which they will proceed via Shanghai and Japan to America.

VICTORIA SCHOOL.

PRIZE-GIVING DAY.

This was a red-letter day for the scholars in Victoria School, Causeway Bay, the occasion being the presentation of prizes by Mr. I. A. Irving, Inspector of Schools. There was a very good attendance and the room used for the occasion was full, while the smiles on the faces of the children denoted the greatest pleasure. Before the presentation took place, a short programme of music was gone through by the children, which was well appreciated by those who attended.

The headmaster (Mr. W. H. Williams) read his report as follows.

By Government Notification, No 74, of the 3rd Feb, 1905, the Victoria School was opened. On May day, the 20th March, 1905, for children of European parents, both boys and girls, with this restriction, that girls over 12 years of age are not admitted or allowed to remain at the school.

Classification.—The school is divided into an infant, a lower, and an upper school. Pupils are transferred to the upper school on attaining the standard of knowledge equivalent to the fifth standard of a public elementary school in England.

CURRICULUM UPPER SCHOOL.

The course of instruction provides for a thorough modern and general education and includes: mathematics, physical and commercial geography, constitutional history, English grammar, composition and literature, hygiene, free arm and freehand drawing, object lessons, applied mechanics, geometrical drawing and Pitman's shorthand.

* Boys only.

LOWER SCHOOL.

Reading, writing, arithmetic, geography, grammar, wordbuilding, composition, drawing, clay modelling, object lessons, singing, sewing, and Kindergarten studies.

Infant school: reading, writing, arithmetic, singing, drawing, sewing and kindergarten. In all classes the first half hour each morning is given to biblical instruction.

Attendance.—During the last week in March, 1905, 12 pupils were admitted, in July, there were 21, in December 31, and the last admission number was 62. Five pupils have left the school, 1 to take employment, 2 to return to England and 2 to go to other schools. While the average attendance has thus trebled itself in twelve months, I am pleased to report that the pupils themselves have attended school regularly and in the aggregate have put in over 90% of the total possible number of attendances; when parents thus send their children to school regularly greater justice is done to the children, to their teachers, and to the school.

SPECIAL SUBJECTS.

Hygiene.—A beginning in this subject was unavoidably delayed till November, 1905, when the Upper School took the Government examination in the advanced stage the results of which were not satisfactory, but in justice to the pupils who presented themselves for this examination it should be pointed out—(a) that they were imperfectly prepared, having received 6 weeks' tuition only; (b) that the average age of the pupils was only 12 and not having received any preliminary instruction they were not mentally fit for the study of the subject; (c) they were entered under pressure from the Inspector of Schools who on learning that there were not enough pupils to form a team for the competition in the elementary course requested me to send them in for the advanced course rather than that a Government school should be altogether unrepresented at the examination. We may, however, look forward to better results next December as the subject is now regularly and systematically taught, and I have added to the elementary course of physiology and "First Aid" to the syllabus as these branches of hygiene appeal to English children.

Religious Instruction.—As the year ending Dec. 31, 1905, included seven working months only I did not recommend the holding of an independent examination in religious knowledge for 1905 for the reasons that all the pupils were re-classified at midsummer and 18 new pupils were admitted during the autumn term. An examination would have served no useful purpose as the syllabus of instruction had to be modified and more than half the pupils had not received six months' instruction.

Lesson of the Empire.—Last year being the Nelson Centenary the upper school pupils received a special course of lessons upon the growth of the Empire during the 18th and 19th centuries. On Victoria Day, May 24th, the children assembled at school and an address was given by my reviewing the chief events during the reign of Queen Victoria, after which the National Anthem was sung, and a holiday granted for the rest of the day. During the Xmas holidays the upper school pupils contributed essays for the 'Lord Meath Empire Day Essay Competition, 1906'; five of the Essays were authorized by the Inspector of Schools for despatch to the Federal Council. The results of this competition are expected shortly. It has been arranged to celebrate Victoria Day this year by carrying out Lord Meath's suggested programme for Empire Day and His Excellency the Governor has kindly consented to preside at a joint celebration by the scholars of the Kowloon and Victoria Schools at the Victoria School.

ATHLETICS.

In response to a letter which I sent to parents in April last, subscriptions were sent to the 'School Sports Fund' to cover the expenses for the supply of materials for cricket, football, and other games. The boys take keen interest in their games—I am pleased to say that they have competed in the Hongkong Schools Football League, at least one match a week has been played and several fixtures in both cricket and football have been arranged for this year. I attach much importance to organized school games and all boys are compelled to take part in some sports unless parents for a valid reason expressly desire otherwise.

GOVERNMENT INSPECTION.

The infant and the lower schools were inspected in November and the upper school in December by the Inspector of Schools, and his report is as follows:

DISCIPLINE AND ORGANIZATION.

The discipline is very good, considering the short time the school has been in existence. The organization of the infant and lower schools is quite satisfactory. In the upper school it is quite impossible to express a definite opinion, as the pupils have come into the school at intervals during the few months that the school has been open; and it cannot be said with any certainty how far their attainments and weak points are attributable to their former education. I have therefore not attempted to criticize the work done by them at examination in any detail, but I can say that the pupils are backward in writing and arithmetic, and that their deficiencies will require much attention. The elaborate course of study outlined in the report of the Headmaster must be taken to some extent as an ideal to be pursued, not necessarily in the immediate future.

Sanitation.—Very satisfactory. Apparatus.—Very satisfactory. Infant and Lower Schools (reading very good progress made. Writing great pains are being taken with handwriting. Geography very well taught. Arithmetic very good. Drawing very well taught; Kindergarten good. Singing not very much has been accomplished, hitherto.

Since this report was made the weaker points in the Lower School indicated by the Inspector have been attended to. Kindergarten materials have been obtained from England and singing is now taught by note on the tonic-sol-fa method.

This being the first year of the school continuity of instruction has been difficult. With a view to starting a fresh year's work to be completed by the end of this year I have during the past two weeks made a thorough examination of the school in the Infant and Lower School in charge of Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. Morris, there is evidence of very satisfactory progress, so that each class will now be promoted to the one higher. With regard to the Upper School I regret to report that the results are not so satisfactory. Considering that the average age of the pupils is 12½ years, I expect a much higher standard of proficiency in mathematics and English than is shown by the examination results. The standard of attainment in any subject does not justify any special reward for proficiency and I have not recommended to the Government the granting of prizes to the Upper School. I have now very great pleasure in calling the Inspector of Schools to present the prizes to the pupils of the lower school who have really merited them (Applause).

The prizes were then distributed.

THE PRIZE LIST.

Infant Class—Ada Dickson, Anna Ogilvie, Mary Mercer, Ernest Wilkinson, Roy Tatum.

Standard I—Norman Robertson, George Rodger, Frieda Schoenfelder, Edgar Davey, Kathleen Jackson, Thomas Martin, John Grimshaw.

Standard II—John Rodger, Jessie Rodger, Jessie Stokes, Queenie Tatum.

Standard III—Ivan Gibson, George Baker, Kathleen Course, Jessie McNeill, Irene Maxwell.

Mr. Irving said it gave him great pleasure in having to distribute the prizes at this, the first meeting of the school. The foundations of the Victoria English School were laid about eighteen months ago, when a petition was sent to H.E. the Governor asking him to start an all British school on this side, corresponding to Kowloon School which was started for the same purpose at the beginning of 1902. No time was lost; luckily Mr. Williams being here they did not have to send home for a master, and the school was started in less than seven months from the time it was asked for. They were also lucky in having a building in which to house the school, because if they had had to build it would have taken much longer. The speaker referred to the similarity between British schools in Hongkong and the cackoo, remarking that they took over buildings intended for other purposes. For instance, when it was decided to start a British school at Kowloon they had no building, but there was a very fine building erected by a Chinese gentleman which place Kowloon saw would suit very well, so took it. Following this precedent it was left to him to suggest a building for this school, and he decided that the present building would be about the best. It was a little Chinese school containing one master and one scholar, and he thought they ought sometimes to sympathize with that Chinese boy, who no longer enjoys the privilege of a whole school, a schoolmaster and a blackboard to himself (laughter). Regarding housing he thought he could say with some confidence that the Victoria School was the prettiest in the Colony and as far as outward equipment went left very little to be desired. But a school wanted children. At first it seemed as if the attendance would not be as large as expected, but this year Mr. Williams said the number touched 60, while 45 were actually present during March, at that rate of progress they had every reason to hope that the number would equal that of the Kowloon school. The Kowloon school was to specialise the education of girls and Victoria School the education of boys, which the speaker considered the most satisfactory arrangement, because the education of boys must be somewhat different. The little girls in this school were well disciplined and were getting on very well with their studies. Since the new term began with dolls, which they did very well, he hoped when they went home they would ask their mothers to lend them the baby (laughter). It only remained for him to congratulate Mr. Williams on the flourishing condition of the school and to thank the ladies and gentlemen present for turning up in such numbers. He hoped that next year the half of Hongkong would be present at the prize-giving (Applause). At the conclusion the headmaster called upon the children to give their hearty cheers for Mr. Irving, and the proceedings terminated.

UNDESIRABLES IN HONGKONG.

A SCENE AT THE CENTRAL STATION.

12th inst.

That Hongkong is the dumping ground for Eastern ports is a fact that cannot be disputed. Chinese criminals who find Kowloon too hot for them, the innumerable tradition cases that have been reported in these columns, seek Hongkong as their only port of refuge. Deportees from the Straits Settlements and Saigon find their way to our shores as if this Colony only existed for sheltering such undesirables. This fact can be confirmed easily enough. Almost daily cases are reported in this journal of coolies who have been arrested for crimes committed and state unblushingly that they have only arrived in the Colony from Canton or the interior, and the same may be said of the last boat. They are no doubt quite aware of the English laws and some of them are only too glad to go to gaol. If we remember rightly, and it was not so very long ago, a coolie who was convicted remarked in the waiting-room that it would be to his pleasure if the magistrate had added on a couple of months more to his already long sentence. Without the slightest compunction he said that in gaol he had his chow regularly, always a bed, and a roof above his head, the work they set him to do was only child's play considering what they have to do outside for 100 cash a day, and a regular bath. But the latter affair he did not appear to appreciate, but he concluded with "get used to it, anyway!" Such is the low-class Chinaman's fear for the Victoria Gaol.

This afternoon, a visit to the Central Police Station, presented an ideal picture of Chinese happiness. In the compound of the Station were no less than 133 decrepit looking Chinese who had been deported from Saigon recently and arrived in the Colony on board the steamship Victoria this morning. One and all were afflicted with some disease, mainly leprosy. Others could not walk and had to be carried by policeman. They were all huddled up together, with their boxes beside them, to all outward appearances as happy as sand-boys, waiting leisurely the verdict of the detective office. Thanks to the detective department these men were secured before they were let loose in the streets of Hongkong, and in charge of Detective F. L. Clyde, these undesirables were "passed on" to pastures new.

SIR ARTHUR MOORE.

VISITS GOVERNOR MONTENEGRO AT MACAO.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

Macao, 12th April, 1906.

The first visit to Macao of the new Commander-in-Chief of the British Naval Squadron in China was made on Wednesday. At six o'clock in the evening that day H.M.S. Alacrity, flying the flag of His Excellency Vice-Admiral Sir Arthur W. Moore, anchored in the roadstead. At ten o'clock this forenoon the Admiral landed in the inner harbour of Macao at what is known as the old Naval Station pier. Early in the morning the river gunboat Moore steamed out from her moorings to the Alacrity in the outer harbour, the Admiral having embarked on board the Moore, she returned to Macao.

At the wharf to receive the distinguished visitor a guard of honour, under an officer of captain's rank, was posted. Sir Arthur Moore's landing was received with all the honours due to his rank, and then inspected the force. Accompanied by his aide-de-camp, and the Commander of the Alacrity, the British Admiral, attended by the Portuguese Chief of Staff, Captain Damascus de Meneses of the Artillery, proceeded to Government House, for a formal visit to the Governor of the Colony, Senhor Marinho de Montenegro. Another guard of honour in command also of a Captain awaited Sir Arthur Moore's arrival at the gubernatorial residence. The honours accorded the British visitor are what are equivalent to those given in Portugal to a General of Division.

After the usual exchange of courtesies the Admiral and the British officers returned aboard the Moore in the port.

At eleven in the forenoon the Governor returned the Admiral's visit on board the British gunboat. At 1 p.m. the Admiral returned to the Alacrity, which weighed anchor and steamed out in the direction of Canton. Had the Admiral not left to-day and had prolonged his stay at this port, his Excellency would have been entertained at a banquet at Government House. The members of the Macao Club are entertaining their friends at dinner on Easter Sunday and it was the intention of the committee to invite the British Admiral and his suite to honour the Club with their presence at the function.

CHINA'S representative at the celebration of the coming marriage between King Alfonso of Spain and H.R.H. Princess Ena of Denmark, we understand, is to be H.E. Wang-Ta-hsi, Chinese Minister to the Court of St. James's. The proper person to go to Madrid for the purpose ought naturally to be H.E. Sir Chen-tung Liang, Chinese Minister accredited to the country. For instance, however, to the non-settlement of the new Extradition Treaty with the United States His Excellency cannot leave Washington, with the result that H.E. Wang-Ta-hsi has been appointed.—A.C.D. News.

PIRATICAL OUTRAGE.

HONGKONG MISSIONARY HELD UP.

PIRATES ARMED CAP-PIE.

GRAPHIC NARRATIVE.

San-hing River, 4th April.

A few days since I completed my twenty-third year of life in the Orient, and I have always been devoutly thankful that, during all that time though travelling constantly in the interior, I have never been held up by robbers. I have been on launches and on Chinese passenger boats where the bullet marks could be seen of previous encounters with robbers; but I never had the misfortune of being present at such an attack. Still I often wondered what I should do in case such a trial should come to me. Other friends of mine have been shot, tied to bed posts, or stripped almost of all their clothing; but the robbers have never molested me until the night of the 4th of April when our passage boat lying at anchor near the village of Tung in the San-hing District was simultaneously attacked with two other passage boats by about thirty or forty armed robbers many of whom carried the more improved modern weapons. The first thing that I heard was some loud shouting and several shots fired, whereupon the captain called out, "This is the passage boat from San-hing and we have but few passengers on board."

"Row ashore or we'll put some bullet holes through your head," came back the angry reply.

In the meantime the shouting continued and the bullets flew through the midnight air so as to make one feel rather uncomfortable. Indeed, a number struck the boat and shattered a bamboo just above the head where my boy lay.

"Lie down," said the captain to me; "the robbers are coming."

In a few minutes more three or four well armed Chinese came through the boat, carrying their rifles and a belt of cartridges around their shoulders. They wore no trousers and had only a loin cloth around their waists.

"You are a French father," said the foremost man as he saw me rise on my elbow. "We won't touch you; we are looking for another man."

This he repeated several times until I thought that perhaps we should not be molested. They left the boat and I thought that the worst was over, but in less than two minutes, no doubt after a brief consultation with the other robbers, they returned, and the leader (whom I supposed would not touch me) asked me for my watch and then asked: "Where is your money?" I told him that I did not have very much and finally gave him my pocket book. This man was so friendly that he commenced to appropriate to himself my suspenders, vest and the two coats that I had on, and I feared that I should have the same fate with a certain other missionary who had his trousers taken from him; but happily they were satisfied with rummaging in my pockets.

"Open that basket," said one, and, of course, I obeyed; for one is ready to do almost anything when a loaded rifle is pointed at his head.

"What is this?" asked my would-be friend, but who was really my worst enemy, as he held up my medicine case and which had relieved many an ailment of the Chinese as well as foreigners.

"You don't want that," said I; "it is only a medicine case which will be of no value to you; please do not take it."

But the man was so friendly that he folded it up and took it with the rest of the things. My surgical instruments fared in the same way. It was a little hard to see my old tooth forceps seized with which I had pulled 100 Chinese teeth in one day, but it went; robbers do not care for sentiment. Fever thermometers, hypodermic syringes, scissors, forceps, etc., all went before I had time to think. Indeed, they surrounded me like a pack of wolves, and after one had searched me, another came up and repeated the same friendly operation. One of my baskets was in the hold. As the horde of pirates came on board this was opened and one of the men without saying a word wrenched the lock off and helped himself to a number of articles, and clothes with the thirty odd dollars that I had concealed there. I began to think that everything would go, when the first man came back to me and handed me back my two coats, but not my vest and said he wanted my shirt. I thought it best to accede to this request and doffed my sweater which I wore and then expected to travel for two days and two nights in a singlet. My overcoat was also taken and I expected every minute my comforter and study gown would go; but no, they were left. The last article seized was the camera with which I had taken pictures illustrating Chinese life, that have been sent all over the world—Australia, England, Germany, Canada and America, and which have been printed in books and magazines. A ruffian was going to open it with a kick, but I told him I would open it for him which I did expecting that he would leave me my old and tried friend. But no, that was also ruthlessly snatched away without regard to any of my feelings. Even my account books were scattered about because they were hunting for bank notes. My boy managed to persuade them not to take one or two under-shirts that he had washed, but many of these also disappeared.

After they left we commenced to gather up the remnants and to take an account of stock. For suspenders I secured a string they had left behind to tie up my trousers. Pityable sight! There are some of my books floating in the water which had leaked through a hole made by a bullet. My account books were found partially torn, but I was glad to find that I had sufficient clothing left until I could reach Hongkong, even if I could not grace a drawing-room. But what of my state of mind during the attack and robbery? I can't say that I was so very much afraid, nor that I feared for my life at any time. My mood was rather of a quiescent kind. It is true that one does not enjoy being fired at in the dark without knowing where his enemy is, but on the whole I was quieter than I ever expected to be under such circumstances, and I would counsel every one that may pass through such an experience to be cool and offer no resistance. Our shoes and umbrellas were all taken. Fortunately, one pair out of the three pairs of shoes that I had with me was left, but some of the other passengers lost theirs. My boy had twenty cents on his person and this was also taken from him.

I do not know that I ever spent the wee small hours of the night in writing a letter to a Chinese Magistrate before, but I did it on this occasion and reported my loss to the San-hing District Magistrate whom I had seen the day before. Was this an attack on foreigners? Oh, no! The robbers were only after money and portable goods, but they really did not get so very much from our boat. But the wonder is that such a state of things could occur on a river that is traversed daily by so many vessels and with thirteen miles of San-hing City where a district magistrate holds his office. Will the powers that be answer this query and prevent in future the recurrence of such an event and not only put the Chinese but also the foreigners in jeopardy of their lives as well as losing all their valuables?

Mr. Editor, I trust you will excuse this poor writing; but I am writing not with my fountain pen which the robbers seized, but with an old rusty nib stuck in the end of a Chinese pen and am dipping the same into a Chinese tea-cup containing a little ink and sitting on the bottom of a boat on a Chinese mat with my knee for my table.

Do I entertain any bitter feelings against the mass of the Chinese? No, I rather pity them, for many of them yearly lose their all. Shall I discontinue my efforts of teaching and healing among such a people that furnish such ruffians? No, the more such scenes occur the greater the need. It is not easy to bear the loss of about $250 in instruments, medicines, clothing and money; but that is a small consideration in uplifting a people that need the salvation of body, mind and soul.

Yours in behalf of the millions of the Chinese that are not robbers and who discountenance such deeds as much as you and I.

C. R. HAGER.

P.S.—After examining the boat a little more closely I find that several passengers came very near being hit with the deadly missiles, one bullet passing through the boat only an inch or so from an opium smoker's head. It is with thankful hearts that we record our personal safety when every one of us might have been shot.

No such robbery had occurred on this river San-hing to my knowledge, hence it need not be considered ill-advised for any one to travel upon the same at a time of year when usually everything is quiet and which has been travelled by many foreigners for more than twenty years.

THE SHANGHAI BOYS' BRIGADE.

INSPECTION BY GENERAL HATTON.

The N. C. D. News, of 3rd inst., says: Yesterday was a red-letter day for the boys of the 1st Shanghai Company of the Boys' Brigade, for Major-General Villiers-Hatton, G.O.C. Hongkong, had kindly consented to inspect them at their drill in the Town Hall. The recent riot has stimulated recruiting among the lads quite as much as it has among their seniors in the Volunteer Corps, and in spite of the fact that a considerable contingent is away at school at Chefoo there were seventy on parade last evening. This number includes the members of the drum and fife band, which under Handmaster Mansfield has made simply wonderful progress, seeing that it was only organised in January and was yesterday able to supply a number of material aids very creditable players. The rush of recruits also exceeded the resources of the company's armoury and some of those in the ranks had to appear, therefore without arms, but steps have already been taken, we understand, to supply these deficiencies.

When it is remembered that many of the diminutive soldiers on parade yesterday are not much past eleven years old, and that the proportion of recruits is very large, the marching and other movement done were extremely creditable, and Capt. Hill and his officers have every reason indeed to be proud of their very keen and promising company. There were present a few parents and others interested, but many more would have attended, had they had the interesting occasion been made more widely known.

Major-General Villiers-Hatton, with whom was Major Chichester, D.S.O., and Lt.-Col. Watson (Commandant S.V.C.) arrived at 6 p.m. and was received by the Chaplain (the Rev. C.E. Darwent). After drill the lads were drawn up in inspection order and the General addressed them. He first complimented them on the smartness of their appearance and drill and then reminded them that, by belonging to an organisation like this, they would pick up much knowledge and experience, not only military, that they would otherwise miss. The spirit of emulation, for one thing, was encouraged and that was excellent, as until a lad tried to achieve an end he never knew how much he could accomplish. He believed himself that a great benefit would be conferred on the British nation if military training of some sort was made incumbent on every boy and youth, but until that was done, it was greatly to the credit of those who came forward of their own free will to be trained. He pointed out that by so doing they learnt such qualities as keeping quiet and obedient, very difficult for boys. Shanghai being a flat place a most important duty of those engaged in defending it was in keeping up communication, and this was very largely done by signalling both by flags and semaphores. It was a branch of service which he would like especially to encourage, and he had made arrangements through Col. Watson to give a cup to the member of the brigade who at next year's inspection should be found to pass the best examination in signalling.

The Chaplain, on behalf of the boys, expressed their sense of the honour the General had conferred on them, and their thanks for the encouragement he had given them by his inspection and the offer of the cup which would certainly be keenly contested.

General Villiers-Hatton then withdrew, and the lads were put through a short drill by their company officers before being dismissed.

CHINA LIGHT AND POWER CO., LTD.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The fifth ordinary annual meeting of shareholders in the above Company was held in the Company's offices, St. George's Building, in the forenoon, to-day.

There were present:—The Hon. Mr. R. S. Sheen (in the chair), Sir Paul Chater, Dr. J. W. Noble, Messrs. H. P. White, A. Babington, Lung Wa Chun and R. Hancock (secretary).

The notice calling the meeting having been read by the Secretary.

The Chairman said:—Gentlemen,—The report and accounts having been in your hands since 23rd March will now with your permission be taken as read. The gross profit on our working at Canton and Kowloon is $61,184.97, and after paying interest on borrowed capital amounting to $2,118.89 allowing for depreciation $7,395.35, and deducting other sundry charges there remains $51,110.80, out of which we recommended paying a dividend of six per cent, equal to $3,000, and carrying forward $1,212.82, to next account. As stated in the report the result would have been considerably better had it not been that the boycott at Canton through a mistaken notion was directed against us, which error it took us some time to dispense, and for the high price of coal which was at times as much as 30% higher than it was the previous year. The trouble has quite passed away, and as for the latter I am glad to say that the price of coal shows signs of being on the turn, and now that the war demand is over there seems no reason why the market should not return to normal figures. The returns from Kowloon, though still in modest figures, show a marked increase year by year. The gross returns from Canton were some 30% higher than those of the previous year, but nevertheless our workmen are still kept constantly employed on new installations, while we have a very large field for our operations left untouched. Our sales of current expand every month; in fact that expansion is only limited by scarcity of skilled labour, we having to simply train our workmen ourselves. With a concession from the Chinese Government for lighting up the city of Canton and areas beyond our future prospect seems fully assured.

But of course to keep up with the demand we have had to increase our plant, and to spend money. You will see that besides about $14,000, expended on lines at Kowloon and Canton we have spent some $700,000 at Canton on buildings and machinery. With this money we have installed another "Engine Alternator Set," a Babcock and Wilcox boiler and superheater and smaller accessory plant. Further we had to extend the building containing our engines and boilers, and in doing so we had considerable difficulty, owing to the lack of provision for extension made by the original Chinese proprietors. In fact we began to fear that we should either have to remove the works altogether, or split the plant up into separate stations, neither course being desirable, but fortunately owing to the bunding scheme, and by filling in a creek we have been able to purchase a piece of land which although expensive will afford us a compact power station, quite large enough for all ordinary requirements. The extension work on this site was necessarily expensive, as a hard bottom for our foundations could not be found, so the heaviest description of piling was necessary. The capital expenditure on lines is due to our pushing our mains into all positions in the city, where there is likely to be a good demand for our light. It also includes the cost of a submarine cable across the river to Honam. We have still, however, to make further additions this year to keep up with the demand. In making these extensions, we have, as coal has proved such an item, felt justified in turning our attention to some of the latest systems of generating electricity from fuel other than coal; as a result of these investigations we have decided to adopt a Diesel oil engine. This type of engine works on a new principle, and is without doubt very economical, and we feel confident from the inquiries we have made that we shall effect a considerable saving in fuel by this change in our type of engines. We have therefore placed an order for one 200 H.P. Diesel engine-alternator set which will work side by side with our present steam sets. Our weak point at still our finances. You will see that by paying a heavy commission we managed to float 200,000 of new capital, which we could not otherwise dispose of, and that in this way we have improved our position, and reduced our cost for interest which should be still less this year, but money on loan cannot be always depended upon, and if we are to do all the business which we can see before us, we must get more money. That probably will not be easy, but it should not be impossible, for we hold a valuable concession, our business is now on a paying basis, and our prospects for the future are certainly very good. I shall be pleased to answer any questions.

The Chairman—Questions being asked, I beg to propose that the report and accounts as presented, be adopted.

Dr. J. W. Noble seconded.

Carried.

On the motion of Mr. Lung Wa Chun, seconded by Mr. A. Babington, Sir Paul Chater, Dr. J. W. Noble and Mr. H. P. White were re-elected to the Consulting Committee.

Messrs. W. H. Polls and A. O'D. Gourdine were re-elected auditors for the ensuing year, on the motion of Sir Paul Chater, seconded by Mr. H. P. White.

The Chairman—That is all the business, gentlemen. I am much obliged for your attendance. Dividend warrants will be ready on Monday.

The meeting then terminated.

AMERICAN BANKER IN JAPAN.

HONOURING MR. J. SCHIFF.

On the evening of the 28th ult., Dr. Sakatani, Minister for Finance, gave a dinner in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schiff and party. There were present—Mr. Wilson, U.S. Charge d'Affaires, and Mrs. Wilson; other members of the U.S. Embassy; Marquis Saionji, Viscount Tanaka, Minister for the Imperial Household; Mr. Matsukata, Minister for Agriculture and Commerce; Baron Komura, Mr. Chinda, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs; Baron Shibusawa, Baron Iwasaki, Mr. Matsuo, Governor of the Bank of Japan; Mr. Takahashi, President of the Specie Bank; Mr. Soyeda, President of the Japan Credit Mobilier, Limited; Mr. Sonoda, President of the Noboru Bank; and Mr. Hayashi, General-Director of the Mitsui Bank. During the evening the Minister for Finance welcomed Mr. Schiff, and spoke in the highest terms of the valuable services rendered by him in the flotation of Japanese loans in America.

The Tokio Municipal Council has decided to give a reception to Mr. Schiff and Mr. Malcom, Japanese Honorary Consul at Melbourne, who is also now in Tokio.—Japan Chronicle.

ADMIRAL Baron Yamamoto, ex-Minister for the Navy, called on his inspection of the Port Arthur fortifications on 27th ult., and left for Changhai Bay, Korea, the same day.

SEAQUAKE IN HONGKONG.

STRANGE EXPERIENCE IN THE HARBOUR.

An extraordinary experience befell the vessels in the harbour late evening when what is known as a seaquake occurred. About 5 o'clock the breeze died away and a sudden stillness came over the water. Then there was a surging of the sea, which lashed itself into an effervescence; the ships rocked, and doors banged to the consternation of those on board. According to the chief engineer of the Fathian that vessel was lying at her wharf when the unusual commotion amazed everybody. Everything on the ship was shaken up by the eruption, and for fully five seconds the vessel was rocking, while the ropes were strained to breaking point. Although there was no wind, the sea was surging around the Fathian and there was every evidence of a violent seaquake having occurred. At Yumaiti, the junks and sampans were thrown against the quay-wall and several sustained serious damage. The frightened occupants in several instances hastily hoisted sail and left their moorings, but the shock subsided within a few seconds. Curiously enough only a few people realised what had happened, the majority believing that the disturbance was due to the passing of some large steamers proceeding simultaneously in the same direction. It is said that one or two on shore felt an earthquake but this has not been authenticated. It seems to be the general opinion, however, that it was a seaquake that happened, and it was certainly a strange and eerie sensation, which none of the sailors in port desire to experience again, and which all the native sailors on the Chinese junks and sampans will hold in abhorrence.

ANOTHER PIRACY.

OUTSIDE LYCEUM PASS.

FISHING JUNK HELD UP.

On Sunday morning the crew of fishing junk No. 41591 were taken to the Kowloon Police Station and made a report that their junk had been held up and robbed by pirates not far away from the Colony. According to the report made by the master of the junk, it was stated that about four o'clock on the morning of the 5th instant, when near Futau-Chau Island, outside Lyceum Pass, they had just lowered their nets to commence fishing, when suddenly a noise from the after part of the junk told them that strangers were aboard. The three men of the crew were ordered to throw up their hands, by about seven armed men under threats of being fired at. The crew were then searched and the master's keys were removed, while the fishermen were locked in the hold of the junk. What happened after this the crew were unable to say, but when they succeeded in getting on deck again the pirates had decamped with $45 worth of money and clothing. They made for Hongkong yesterday and gave information, but they state they are unable to identify the pirates.

ROBBING A JUNK IN DISTRESS.

CREW OF HOK-LO JUNK ARRESTED.

The thunderstorm in the forenoon yesterday was the cause of some damage occurring inside this harbour, and from accounts now to hand we learn that a large fishing junk had a bad time of it. At the time of the squall the boat was sailing near Po Tai O, New Territory, about twelve miles from the Colony, when all at once a strong gust of wind caught the sails and caused her to turn turtle. Four Hok-lo junks, which were in the vicinity dragging corals, set sail and steered for the ill-starred junk. They rescued the crew of the fishing-junk, which consisted of nine persons, from the water, attached a tow-line to the capsized junk, and towed her near to the beach at Po Tai O, where they righted her. There they landed the rescued crew and then, it was alleged, began looting the junk, stealing $100 in hard cash, a musket, and other goods to the value of $155. The fishing people succeeded in getting to Shaui-kiwan and there reported the matter at six o'clock last evening to Inspector Robertson. A launch was hired, and the crew of the Hok-lo junk eventually captured.

They were charged with theft before Mr. F. A. Hazeldan this morning.

Mr. Hazeldan—Did they say that because they saved your life they were going to take the goods?

Master of junk—Yes.

Evidence was heard as to the finding of the clothing, etc., on board defendants' junks.

The defendants said that the things they were charged with stealing were given them as compensation for saving their lives.

Mr. Hazeldan (to complainant)—Did you promise to give them anything as compensation?—I did not.

His Worship told the defendants not to do this sort of thing again, and bound them over in the sum of $100 each to come up for judgment when called upon.

AN ELEPHANT'S REVENGE.

INCIDENTS IN THE HARBOUR.

Two sampanmen had the greatest surprise of their lives yesterday afternoon, and the shaking-up they received will be a lesson to them. For the greater part of the afternoon a crowd of coolies were on board the steamer Yokohama teasing Spanpan's elephant, by offering it sugar-cane and when the animal stretched out its trunk to receive the gift, the coolies around would strike the animal. Enraged by the treatment it had received the elephant suddenly, when nothing was expected by the gaping crowd, picked up a coolie by its leg and threw him overboard, the unfortunate coolie landing at the bottom of a cargo-boat that was moored alongside the vessel. This revenge of the elephant caused the crowd to disperse, but later in the afternoon the teasing was again indulged in, with the result that the same elephant lashed out at another coolie, catching him squarely on the jaw and causing his head to come in violent contact with the steel partition of the vessel. The coolies were then ordered off the vessel.

THE Diplomatic Corps in Tokio will be invited to witness the grand military review to be held by His Majesty the Emperor on the 30th inst. in Tokyo, in celebration of the triumphant return of the Army from Manchuria. Foreign officers will also be privileged to witness the review as far as accommodation will allow, and it is expected that the officers of naval squadrons in the Far East representing Treaty Powers, and those stationed at Hongkong, Kinschau, Amoy, Tonkin, and Manila will go to Tokio to participate in the auspicious occasion. The Emperor of Korea has appointed the Minister for Finance, who is also a General of the Korean Army, to visit Japan to witness the review.

JUSTICES' MEETING.

At the Magistracy this afternoon, Mr. F. A. Hazeldan, presiding, a meeting of the Justices of the Peace was held to consider an application from one Joseph Henry Newbold for permission to remove the business now carried on by him under an adjunct licence on premises No. 51, Des Vaux Road Central under the sign of "The Owl Grill Room" to premises Nos. 47 and 49, Des Vaux Road Central.

There being no police objection, the application was granted.

The second application was from one Albert W. Staton for the transfer to him from one Antonio Fonseca of the adjunct licence to sell by retail intoxicating liquors on premises No. 13, Queen's Road Central under the sign of "The New Connaught Hotel."

The application was granted unanimously.

THE DISASTER AT TAKASHIMA.

THREE HUNDRED AND SEVEN VICTIMS.

The Kakise shaft, which the disaster occurred, has always been considered dangerous, owing to the presence of gas, by the officials and special cave has been taken to ensure against accident.

There was no indication of danger when the miners commenced work on Wednesday morning and it is not known what caused the accident. At ten o'clock the explosion occurred and almost immediately flames burst out of both pit-mouths; the cage and ventilators were damaged and the former became unworkable.

At 10.35 a.m. the flames appeared to be extinguished and half-an-hour later smoke ceased to rise from the pit. At noon the air in the mine was tested by means of a lamp and it was found to be safe to descend. At 2 p.m. a search party entered the mine, but could not proceed any distance and appearances indicated that the whole of the men who were in the mine at the time of the explosion had perished.

As soon as the occurrence became known the miners off duty and workmen above ground assembled at the pit, but remained orderly. Three clerks, who were in the underground office, perished in the disaster.

At 7 p.m., the ventilator being again in working order, an official and five miners descended to search for bodies. They could only proceed 140 feet. Up to yesterday morning, 37 bodies had been recovered; some of the victims were burnt and others were asphyxiated. The miners are giving every assistance in the sad work of recovering their late comrades. The whole of the victims are not expected to be brought up until to-morrow morning.

Mr. Yuasa, Chief Superintendent of Police in Nagasaki-ken, and two officials of the Mining Administration Bureau at Fukuoka proceeded to the scene of the disaster yesterday at noon.

RUSSIAN FISHING RIGHTS IN SAGHALIEN.

GOVERNMENT DIFFERENCES.

A disagreement has occurred between the War Office at Tokio, the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, and the Foreign Office, as to whether the charters for fishing rights held by Russia in the south of Sakhalin, which has now been taken possession of by Japan, should be confirmed. The War Office and the Department of Agriculture and Commerce are absolutely opposed to the confirmation of the charters, while the Foreign Office—though agreeing with the theoretical aspect of the contents of the other Departments—maintains that the war, prosecuted in the cause of civilisation, must be terminated in the same spirit. Intercourse between Japan and Russia will be disturbed if the former deprives Russia of these rights, and it is not advisable to create any friction over such a trivial question.

A few days ago the Director of the Administration of Kabuto, who is now in Tokio, and the Ministers for War, Foreign Affairs, and of the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, held a conference to discuss the question. A further conference is to be held in a few days, when it is expected that the difficulty will be settled.—Japan Chronicle.

THE DUTY ON RICE IN JAPAN.

SOME STRONG CRITICISM.

By the passage, with some amendment, of the Customs Tariff Bill through the Diet, the temporary duty of 15 per cent. on rice has become permanent. The people believed that this duty—which came into existence while the country was engaged in sanguinary war—would be repealed when peace was restored, says the Tokio Mainichi. The Government proposed in its Tariff Bill to make rice duty-free while it remains dutiable under the war arrangement, thus leaving it to be supposed they had no intention of permanently taxing the grain. At the Committee meeting of the Lower House, however, it was proposed to include rice in the regular tariff, and the proposal was assented to by a large majority. This move was made in the name of "protection for farmers," and is done in the United States, Canada, and Germany. Subjects of this kind are no longer discussed in a full House, where representatives of all classes of land-owners predominate, in an impartial and disinterested manner. It is simply a question of cause and effect. Looked at from the point of view of general public welfare, this selfish proceeding on the part of representatives of landed interests is certainly indefensible. However much as Japan may strive to increase her rice crop, it would be well-nigh impossible to produce sufficient rice to feed the entire population, which is increasing at the annual rate of half a million. The restriction of imports by means of a tariff, obnoxious of the insular position of Japan, and thereby artificially enhancing the cost of living, is denounced by all who consider the question logically and fairly.

Despite the fact, continues the Mainichi, that the opposition was very strong outside the House, the latter body did not hesitate to pass this unpopular measure, an incident which shows that the so-called House of Representatives does not represent the views of the people, but those of only a section. It is the wealthy farmers who desire the price of rice to be increased, the middle-class farmers mostly working for their own food and having little to sell. The rise in the price of rice is a serious disadvantage for small farmers. These latter, in order to make up for the shortage of food, are obliged to work at some secondary occupation, such as agriculture and spinning; so that they too, will not profit by the Tariff. In short, the only persons who will profit by the high price of rice are the large landed proprietors, whose interests are well looked after by the Lower House at the sacrifice of their poorer fellows. If universal suffrage had been in force in Japan, or even the property qualifications of electors had been lowered, the House would not have been able to do as it has. This incident, however, should serve as a further incentive to obtain the speedy extension of the franchise.—Japan Chronicle.

CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

ABOLITION OF TAXES.

[From Our Correspondent.]

Canton, April 6th.

A meeting of the shareholders of the Yuet Han Railway Co. was held at the Oi Yuk Hospital yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of arranging for the election of officers.

Foo-lai-sang was appointed chairman of the meeting, Han-hay-chiu speaker, and Kang-nan-nam secretary.

It was agreed:—

That the 72 guilds and 8 charitable institutions should jointly decide upon the first officers of the Company subject to final approval of the main body of shareholders, namely:—President of the Chamber of Commerce shall nominate 3 men; the 7 hospitals shall nominate 3 men; 11 of the guilds (viz.: bankers, silk, pawnshops, small pawnshop, rice, salt, piece goods, medicine, cotton, fancy goods, and exporters of silk) shall each nominate 2 men, while the remaining 61 guilds shall each nominate 1 man.

In presenting nominations the following information shall be submitted:—name of man, to what guild he belongs, what district and province he comes from, his address, his business, what office he is nominated to fill. While it must be understood that his appointment will be only temporary, he is to receive no salary, he must be of good character, must be wealthy, and must possess some special knowledge of general affairs.

TAXES ABOLISHED.

The Viceroy yesterday announced the removal of the several additional taxes levied some time ago for the purpose of raising funds for the railway.

THE JAPANESE RAILWAYS.

METHOD OF PROCEDURE IN THE PURCHASE.

The first step to be taken by the Government towards the purchase of the railways under the new Act is the establishment of an office under the control of the Minister of Communications. This office will undertake the management of affairs relating to the purchase of the lines, and the regulations governing the new office will be published in a few days. It is believed Mr. Nakashoji, Vice-Minister for Communications, will take charge of this office, its staff being selected from the present officials of the Railway Working Bureau and the Railway Bureau. The office will exercise the utmost diligence to prevent unscrupulous use being made of lines and rolling-stock, and the neglect of repairs by any company pending the purchase of the lines by the Government.

During the coming fiscal year the purchase of the Seoul-Fusan Railway and two or three of the principal lines in Japan will be effected, and the expenses required for working these lines will be defrayed out of the reserve fund in the State Treasury.

By the amendments made by the Diet, the number of railways to be purchased has been reduced to seventeen, fifteen of the less important lines being excluded from the list as originally proposed by the Government. This amendment results in a reduction of no more than ¥2,244,000 in the amount of bonds required to be issued for the purchase of the railways, the value to be paid for the seventeen lines amounting to ¥447,742,310. The amendment in this respect, therefore, will probably have an effect upon the anticipated decline in the bond market. By the amendment excluding all but the most profitable lines, the Government will be placed in a more advantageous position for working the railways profitably.

A veracious contemporary observes that the smaller lines, such as the Naria, Tobu, and Omi, which have been excluded from the list to be purchased, by reason of their running between the national lines, have no prospect whatever of development. The original form of the Bill contained the principle of nationalisation, but the spirit of the Bill has now been completely altered by the amendment, and now can only result in the suppression of the smaller private lines. It is remarkable that the Government should have so lightly agreed to this amendment which has privatised the whole spirit or primary object of the Government in putting forward the measure. It is also extraordinary that the Nankai Railway should be excluded from the list of lines to be purchased. In defending the Bill in the proceedings in Committee, General Terauchi, Minister for War, laid particular stress on the value of the Nankai line—from the strategical point of view—in preventing a possible enemy landing at Kii Point. Our veracious contemporary asks whether the Minister for War is now able to use this line under private ownership for military purposes to his satisfaction, or was his defence only an argument advanced just to fit the occasion. The seventeen lines to be purchased are:—The Hokkaido Colliery Railway, Hokkaido Railway, Kyushu, Sanyo, Nippon, Kansai, Hankoku, Sangu, Ganyetsu, Hokuryetsu, Kobi, Sobu, Boshu, Nanao, Kyoto, Nishinari, and Tokushima Railways.—Japan Chronicle.

JAPANESE SHIPPING ENTERPRISE.

NEW LINE OF STEAMSHIPS TO MANILA.

Mr. Miller, chief of the Manila Bureau of Navigation, reports that a steamship line, founded in Japan, is to be inaugurated between Manila and Japan. One of the promoters of the company is Mr. Raphael de Castro Midalgo, chairman of the Manila Chamber of Commerce, who recently sailed from America for England, where he is to purchase six steamships having a gross tonnage of about 2,000 tons each. The service to be established between Manila and Japan will be a tri-weekly one. Yokohama will be the main Japanese port of the line, and calls will also be made at Kobe and Nagasaki. In connection with this enterprise it may be noted that a great deal of Japanese capital is now finding its way to the Philippines. The reluctance of American financiers to invest money in the islands until the railroads are built is not being followed by the Japanese who look upon the prospects held out by Philippine enterprises as unusually promising. The promoter of the company are business men, resident in Manila, who were led to make application to Japanese capitalists because they believed that the raising of the needed money for establishing the line could not be effected in American sources. Mr. Raphael de Castro Midalgo, who is prominent among the promoters, has been concerned with the anti-American attitude in the Philippines, and after the massacre of Captain Farley and his men in the interior (about five years ago) was arrested, charged with running guns to the natives. Influence was brought to bear at Washington, and he was pardoned on his promise to stop supplying the natives with guns.

"PLAYMATES."

A TRIUMPH OF YOUTHFUL ART.

12th inst.
Last night, in the presence of a large audience, an innovation, in the guise of a juvenile cantata, was performed at the Union Church School Hall, by the children of Quarry Bay, under the direction of Mr. Robert Dickson. This historic performance was styled "Playmates," and the action of the play was confined to a single day and took place in one scene, viz., "The lawn outside the cottage of Mother Goose, in the village of Whaurist. There were ten principal characters in the cast, their respective parts being taken as follows:—

Mother Goose, Miss Maggie Hoskins.
Father Goose, Mr. George Hoskins.
Annie Laurie, Miss Annie Laurie.
Dick Whittington, Mr. Dick Whittington.

A masterly interpretation of a beautiful and melodious symphony "was followed (to use a dramatic critic's phrase) by a charming and simple interpretation of the same, by the children of Quarry Bay, under the direction of Mr. Robert Dickson. This historic performance was styled "Playmates," and the action of the play was confined to a single day and took place in one scene, viz., "The lawn outside the cottage of Mother Goose, in the village of Whaurist. There were ten principal characters in the cast, their respective parts being taken as follows:—

As a prelude to their delectable musical treat, the chorists treated the company to a superbly rendered opening chorus. Jack Goose now appeared in all the freshness of holiday attire and sang a song, which, besides giving all-present a clue to his identity, led to the secret of the success of his. It seems he had the good fortune to possess a goose blessed with truly philanthropic principles and notaverse to laying a golden egg each morning. No doubt, many of Jack's friends would like to possess such a para avis; but gold hatching eggs are scarce, so Mother Goose seeks to dispel the shadows of disappointment by telling them in dulcet tones how they "may win a fortune sure, some other way."

The means necessary to the achievement of this desired end are disclosed in the song, "Those who honour their parents." Following this comes Mother Goose's declaration that herself and her son are better off now than they used to be. Furthermore, she thinks it only right that Jack should devote a portion of his wealth to the augmentation of the happiness of less fortunate individuals; therefore, she is vastly pleased to find so many children present in response to her son's invitation, and trusts they will enjoy in playful sport a happy day.

A GALLANT FARMER.
Unfortunately, some of Jack's fond companions are not as early on the scene as expected, but, very shortly, Farmer Jack arrives. He is cordially greeted by Mother Goose and her son, but, to their mutual disappointment, tells them he is unable to stay. Asked for the reason, he, in vivacious style, sings of a giant living at no great distance from Whaurist, backed by the chorists, but also others of like predatory instincts.

However, before entering into the strife, he indulges in a playful dialogue with his sweetheart—Flora MacDonald, and listens with delight to her impassioned avowal of love for "Dear, Old Highland Hills and Playmates everywhere." Jack then bids farewell to his companions, throws a kiss to Flora and leaves determined to kill the giants or die in the attempt. To sustain the courage of the girl he's left behind him, the chorists chant "Little lambs on the green," and the company concludes with a charmingly fresh and plaintive little ditty—"Happy Playmates."

DICK WHITTINGTON ON THE SCENE.

Initiated by her singing all indulge in a dance which has scarcely ended, ere Dick Whittington, bundle on shoulder, travel-stained and tired, comes in time to join the revellers. A hearty welcome is accorded him, and he tells of his many adventures as set forth in the song, "My story begins." After the song, the famous London bells ring out their chimes to "which he and Mother Goose listen intently. They speak in a language intelligible to the former who presently sets out once more for the metropolis determined to achieve success. Before he leaves, Mother Goose with commendable thoughtfulness, treats him to a little liquid refreshment.

OLD FRIENDS.

At this stage of the proceedings, Annie Laurie, Aunt Sally and Cowboy Jack turn up from "home place east of Suez" to add to the jollification of their playmates. Each sings a song; Annie Laurie's dealing with the breeze of Maxwellton (her birthplace); Aunt Sally's bespeaking the amount of drudgery which inevitably falls to the lot of someone while the rest of the world is at play; and Cowboy Jack's relating the passage of angry words between himself and his mother arising out of a difference over the price of a cow. Jack said the song, the company only get more of a different brand on his return to home and mother. Luckily for him the investment in beans proved a profitable speculation and restored his lost prestige.

Let us forget, if some have mentioned that a wee little girl of some five or six summers, Miss Aida Dickson, was "in applause with her sweet singing of the first verse of Annie Laurie's contribution, "O, Happy, Happy Birthplace." Simple Simon also evoked congratulatory remarks with his impish and comical "The Mitten in which he entered upon a cleverly appropriated Aunt Sally's stool and wash tub, cast a fishing line into the latter, and angled for whales was fully capable of tickling the risibility of an anchorite.

A MEXLEY OF CHARACTERS.

Prior to Simple Simon's exhibition of "fool-pidgin," the piece de resistance was placed before the audience. It consisted of a duet, Mother Goose singing "Happy Playmates" in concert with the chorists' interpretation of "Lambs on the Green." This met with an extremely gratifying reception. Reverting again to Simple Simon we find that his fishing has proved unfruitful owing to the unwarranted interruption of Jack Goose; that he has desisted of catching either a whale or a sprat; that sleep has overcome him, and in this dormant state he has remained undisturbed by the "bells of the city" or the "trill of the programme," at this juncture, find Maggie Laurie in quest of her lover whom she soon discovers, and from pure joy sings feelingly of "Companions and Playmates," the chorus taking up the refrain and dealing with it intelligently. During this chorus Aunt Sally enters and takes away her tub. Simple Simon is left asleep, sitting rod in hand. In this position he attracts the attention of Jack Goose, who sleep him on the back and pokes fun at him. There is an exchange of compliments; an aspersions is cast upon Simple Simon's fame as a fisher not of whales, but of red herrings! Cowboy Jack now suddenly finds himself in a hurry to leave his adored one—Maggie Laurie—in the depths of despair.

Flora, Annie and Maggie, bereft of their fiancé, give expression to their grief in the crying song "Oh! Oh! Good-bye!" then all alight for a me good natured young fellow willing to search for their playmates three. Simon gallantly volunteers, and tells of a gallant band very near at hand, which at his request will go forth to seek the missing links.

NOT FOR THE HIGHLANDS.

A body of Highlanders clad in silver-faced jackets, sporrans and kilts hereupon come into view to the tune of the "Songs of the Mountains." With praiseworthy skill they dance the Highland Fling in a style suggestive of joy unconfined, are favoured with vociferous clamours for an encore, considerably oblige, and amid a tornado of clapping leave for foreign service.

Feeling lonely without Farmer Jack, Whittington and Cowboy Jack, the holiday makers unite in singing "When from playmates we are parted," a song wherein is revealed the hope of seeing the absentees once more. The fall of the curtain at the moment leaves the audience free to comment favourably upon the realistic acting of the children, the superb solos of Mother Goose, the excellence of the dancing, the capability of Jack Goose in the role of Master of Festivities, and the laughable antics of Simple Simon.

THE LAUREL CROWN.

Ten minutes later, the curtain rises for the second time revealing, as it does so a host of children performing the various evolutions of the Grand March in a fashion dear to the heart of a military martinet. On the retirement of the tramping squads, Simple Simon enters flushed with pride at having so successfully accomplished his mission. To him rush the Ivesick trip, Flora, Annie and Maggie. Seeking all at once they breathlessly ask:—

"Is he here? When will he be back? Tell me, Simon, a quick answer you can." Simon holds up his hands to still their babble and remarks: "Arrah, whisht! Have patience, and I'll tell you all about it." After clearing his throat, Simon purveys fear-dispelling news to the anxious-sweethearts, who, in the excess of their admiration, crown him with a diadem of flowers, throw a floral garland round his neck, and present him with an exquisite bouquet. Mother Goose, the good old soul, deals out compliments and makes the hero blush by telling him, he is as handsome as the Lord Mayor of London.

RETURN OF THE WARRIOR.

An intrepid heralds the return of Farmer Jack as Jack the Giant Killer. Towards its finish, Flora crosses the platform. As she is in the centre, Jack comes bounding in and puts his hands over her eyes. Upon this Annie and Maggie excitedly exclaim:—"Guess, who it is?" Flora guesses aright but styles her lover Farmer Jack. "To this he objects and drawing his sword, observes:—"Not Farmer Jack, but Jack the Giant Killer." Jack Goose, keenly alive to the dignity of the returned warrior, calls for a hearty cheer. It is given with zest by all. The chorists in a spirit of jubilation sing:—"What a merry, merry meeting!" Flora and her adored one afterwards dance round the stage; the rest of the principals "covering the buckle" in the sides while the Highlanders make merry in the rear.

A HAPPY MEETING.

The pealing of bells presage the advent of Whittington, and his excited pet, Annie Laurie, prepares to welcome him. One moment Dick stands in the midst of a large circle of admirers. The radiance of his features betokens the pardonable pride of the returned warrior, in the possession of a mayoral gown and chain. Mother Goose ever ready to bestow congratulations where it is most deserved, comes forward to shower her praise upon the hero. Jack Goose pats him lovingly on the back and calls for a cheer. The chorists comply most willingly. The chorus bears repetition in honour of Dick, and he then dances with Annie. Everyone also cut capers wherever room permits.

MUSIC MAKES AFAR.

Preceded by music, Jack of the Beanstalk enters, disguised with a cloak. Mother Goose advances to greet the gentleman travelling incognito, and remarks:—"You seem to have travelled far, Sir?" The unknown admits the imprudent, and goes on to say he has travelled in ethereal realms. Mother Goose is inclined to doubt his Honour's word, and, in a moment of question further when Maggie comes forward, and exclaims:—"Don't you know who it is, Mother Goose?" "I know. Of course she does—Why shouldn't she? One lover would know another in the dark. It's Cowboy Jack! or rather Jack of the Beanstalk. Jack Goose feels so delighted that nothing short of an ear-piercing 'tong' will suffice in honour of the explorer. To cap it three hearty cheers are given, and a final dance indulged in.

BELIEVING THAT ONE GOOD TURN DESERVES ANOTHER.

Believing that one good turn deserves another, the three heroes favour their playmates with songs which describe in detail their respective adventures. Mother Goose takes these ditties in hand and from them extracts a homely which she loses no time in placing in the safe keeping of her youthful friends. They in return promise to keep her advice ever in view and, when in doubt, to do as she advises. In the west the sun sets to rest; night follows day, and darkness effectually puts an end to the merry-making. Lifting their lusty voices in a song, the company bring down the house and the curtain with a magnificent rendering of the grand finale "Playmates, now the day is done."

MUSIC MAKES AFAR.

'Tis an introduction to Part III, Miss Stubbs, a little girl of some five or six summers, on the piano which were received with applause on the part of those present. A little later as the curtain rose for the third and last time, Miss Maggie Hoskins advanced to the footlights and in a sweet and melodious voice, sang "The Mitten in which he entered upon a cleverly appropriated Aunt Sally's stool and wash tub, cast a fishing line into the latter, and angled for whales was fully capable of tickling the risibility of an anchorite.

A MEXLEY OF CHARACTERS.

Prior to Simple Simon's exhibition of "fool-pidgin," the piece de resistance was placed before the audience. It consisted of a duet, Mother Goose singing "Happy Playmates" in concert with the chorists' interpretation of "Lambs on the Green." This met with an extremely gratifying reception. Reverting again to Simple Simon we find that his fishing has proved unfruitful owing to the unwarranted interruption of Jack Goose; that he has desisted of catching either a whale or a sprat; that sleep has overcome him, and in this dormant state he has remained undisturbed by the "bells of the city" or the "trill of the programme," at this juncture, find Maggie Laurie in quest of her lover whom she soon discovers, and from pure joy sings feelingly of "Companions and Playmates," the chorus taking up the refrain and dealing with it intelligently. During this chorus Aunt Sally enters and takes away her tub. Simple Simon is left asleep, sitting rod in hand. In this position he attracts the attention of Jack Goose, who sleep him on the back and pokes fun at him. There is an exchange of compliments; an aspersions is cast upon Simple Simon's fame as a fisher not of whales, but of red herrings! Cowboy Jack now suddenly finds himself in a hurry to leave his adored one—Maggie Laurie—in the depths of despair.

Flora, Annie and Maggie, bereft of their fiancé, give expression to their grief in the crying song "Oh! Oh! Good-bye!" then all alight for a me good natured young fellow willing to search for their playmates three. Simon fortune to witness "Playmates" as produced at the Taihook Club and at the Union Church Hall. To sum up, we may without fear of contradiction, assert that the performance last night was a huge success—a veritable triumph for the children. It might be also stated that the proceeds from the sale of tickets agreeably augmented the Union Church Hall New Piano fund.

HONGKONG WATER SUPPLY.

12th inst.
The majority of the residents of the Colony will no doubt just now be sympathizing deeply with the feelings of the "Ancient Mariner" in his bitter cry of "Water, water, everywhere, but not a drop to drink," for notwithstanding the fact that the water supply is abundant, the water in the reservoirs is so low that it is anticipated that the supply will be cut off on the 15th inst. We were enabled to state from the report that in the reservoirs up to the previous week there were 62,427,000 gallons of water, which even then was barely a third of the amount in reserve at the same time in the previous year. But now, notwithstanding the late rains, we find, on inquiry of the Director of Public Works, the Hon. Mr. W. Chatham, that the total water now in the reservoirs of the Colony is 74,000,000 gallons only. This amount is anticipated—provided we have not too much dry weather in the meantime—should last well towards the third quarter of May, when the rains may be expected to set in. The Hon. the Director of Public Works stated to-day to a representative of the Hongkong Telegraph, that just as he stayed off putting on the restriction of supply of water to the residents till the last possible safe moment, the restriction will be removed at the earliest possible safe moment. Thus we cannot look for any relief at present.

THE STRANDED "DUMBARTON."

12th inst.
Mr. J. W. Jameson's salvage steamer City of Birmingham left here on the 10th inst. for Vladivostok, en route to De Castries Bay, Russia, to attempt to re-load the s.s. Dumbarton, which stranded there with a valuable cargo last November. The contract has been given to Mr. Jameson by the London-Salvage Association, and he leaves to-day by mail to join his steamer at Vladivostok and conduct the salvage operations. He is also to survey other wrecked steamers on that coast with a view to re-floating.

IMPORTANT COMMISSION FOR HONGKONG ENGINEER.

12th inst.
The Bill provides that inspection shall be made of consulates under instructions from the Secretary of State, and that each consular office shall be inspected at least once in every two years. Every consular officer will be required whenever application is made to him therefor, to administer or take from any person any oath, affirmation, affidavit, or deposition, and to perform any other act required or authorized by law to be done within the United States; and for every such act performed he shall charge in each instance the appropriate fee prescribed by the President, which will all be official and turned into the Treasury of the United States. The sole and only compensation that consular officers shall be allowed to receive will be the regular salaries fixed by law. The Bill also provides that every consular officer shall be provided with a kept supplied with adhesive official stamps, on which shall be printed the equivalent money value of denominations and amounts to be determined by the United States State Department, and whenever a consular officer is required to perform any consular or notarial act, he must affix and validly cancel an adhesive stamp equivalent in value to the fee prescribed, and no such act shall be legally valid within the United States unless such stamps are affixed.

THE WRONG MAN.

12th inst.
In the Summary Jurisdiction this morning, before His Honour Mr. A. G. Wise, P. M. Judge, a case of D. R. Captain versus D. Meyer was called; and Mr. D. Meyer stepped forward.
His Honour: Do you owe me money?
The summoned man: No, my Lord.
His Honour: How is this? Have you got the wrong man?
Plaintiff: The goods were sold to Mrs. D. Meyer.
His Honour: Oh, yes, I see, the summons is made out against Mrs. D. Meyer. (To Mr. Meyer) Are you married?—No, my Lord.
Then what have you to do with this matter?
—Nothing whatever, my Lord. All I know about it is that I was served with that summons.
Then I can have nothing to do with you. (To plaintiff) You have pointed out the wrong person to the bailiff; you had better go and serve the woman, and the case will stand adjourned for one week.

A CLOSE SHAVE FROM GAOL.

12th inst.
In the Summary Jurisdiction this morning, in answer to the summons, a defendant in a case before His Honour Mr. A. G. Wise, in the Summary Court this morning, "when I met the plaintiff and had him arrested."
His Honour: Yes, I know, on a false charge to prevent him coming to Court. Do you not know that to obstruct the administration of justice constitutes contempt of Court?
Defendant: I don't know.
His Honour: I have a very great mind to send you to gaol to teach you a lesson. However, I shall not send you to gaol, but there will be judgment and costs against you, and if the plaintiff brings an action against you for false imprisonment, he'll get heavy damages.
In this case the plaintiff had sued his shopmaster for wages due, and on the day set for the hearing of the case the latter looked out for the plaintiff, and with the object of having the case dismissed he had the plaintiff arrested and taken to the Magistrate's Court, where he was charged with the theft of a cushion and a lamp. There was absolutely no evidence against the accused and he was accordingly discharged. In the meantime, owing to the absence of the parties from the Summary Court, the claim for wages was dismissed. When, however, the plaintiff got clear of the Magistrate, he swore out an affidavit, explaining all the circumstances of the case, and asking for a hearing. This request was granted, the case being set for this morning, and the hearing resulted as above stated.

THE GOLD-BRICK GAME.

12th inst.
Chan Chun and Hun Chau, coolies, were charged this morning, at the instance of Inspector Collett, before Mr. F. A. Hazledar, with obtaining four gold finger-rings from a native woman at First Street, West Point, on the 5th inst., by false pretences. The means by which the defendants were alleged to have duped the woman are ingenious, but by no means new. Both men met the woman in a quiet place at West Point, told her that they were new arrivals in the Colony. They had some bank notes to change, but could not locate a money-changer's shop. Would the woman kindly change the notes for them on being remunerated? A parcel containing gold coins would be produced. The woman was, of course, only too glad to be of assistance to them. But this did not suit the men. "How do we know that you are honest and will not steal our money?" they asked, with the object of making a few dollars by changing their "banknotes" into silver, hands over her jewellery as security. In this case four gold rings—taken the packet alleged to be containing banknotes and makes for the nearest money-changer's shop. On opening the parcel she finds that it contains old paper. She hurries back to find the men, but they have disappeared. The defendants had a previous conviction of four months' gaol for a similar offence. His Worship sentenced defendants to six weeks' hard labour, each and four hours' stocks.

HONGKONG'S IMPORTANCE TO AFRICA.

RANKS NEXT TO LONDON.

12th inst.
We are informed by Mr. Wilbur J. Gracey, acting American Consul-General, that he is in receipt of news by private telegram, to the effect that the Bill providing for the re-organization of the American Consular Service has passed two houses of Congress and become law, and will probably go into effect about the 1st July. This Bill makes many changes for the service. It provides for the classification of consular officers in grades; gives the President authority to transfer officers from one station to another; provides an inspection service with five inspectors, who will rank as consul-general receiving compensation of $5,000 per annum; and all travelling expenses covered by the State. It also provides that all consuls at consulates shall be Americans. It prohibits consuls engaging in law or other business, and requires that all consular fees whether official or unofficial are to be turned into the Treasury.

There are seven classes of consuls-general, the first class being only two, London and Paris. Under the second class are Hongkong, Shanghai, Berlin, Havana, Hamburg, and Rio de Janeiro salaries of $6,000 gold per annum. The third class includes the consuls at Yokohama, Kobe, and other ports in Japan, $5,000 per annum; Canton and Tientsin come under the fourth class with $5,000 per annum; Chongqing, Hankow, Mukden, Newchwang, and Singapore come under class five with $4,500 per annum. There are ten classes of consuls. Liverpool, Manchester, Antwerp, and Marseilles cover the first three classes. Under the fourth class is found Kobe with $5,000 per annum; under the fifth class are Amoy and Foochow at $4,500 per annum; under the sixth class are Canton, Hangchow, and Nanking at $4,000 per annum; under the seventh class Nagasaki with $3,500 per annum.

12th inst.
We are authorized to state that all the dissentient shareholders in the recent suit of L. E. Brown versus the H.K. High-Level Tramways Co., Ltd. have sold their holdings at $5.50 per share on the condition that all appeal proceedings be dropped. As these shares carried a share of undistributed profits up to the 18th October, 1905, which is estimated to be about $500,000 a share, the dissentients get exactly what they want, viz., a share plus dividend. The defendants in the suit will pay the costs in accordance with the judgment of the Court, but as the plaintiffs are liable for unexecuted costs, they are worse off than the shareholders who supported the resolutions.

THE TRAMWAY CO. WILL PROBABLY LOSE ABOUT $100,000, BUT AS THEY HAVE HAD A YEAR'S DELAY AND A YEAR'S FREE FROM OPPOSITION, THEY CAN WELL AFFORD IT.

ABDUCTING A NATIVE WOMAN.

12th inst.
In the case in which Chinese constable No. 335 who was charged and remanded recently, at the instance of Inspector Collett, for abducting a Chinese woman at West Point on 27th March last, judgment was delivered by Mr. Hazledar at the Magistrate's Court. Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master appeared on behalf of the defence.
In giving judgment, Mr. Hazledar said:—The defendant was charged before me for that he did unlawfully take or cause to be taken an unmarried girl named Yeung Hang To being under the age of eighteen years out of the possession and against the will of the complainant, having the lawful care or charge of the said Yeung Hang To, contrary to section 46 of Ordinance 4 of 1897, at Victoria on the 27th day of March, 1906. The section in our Ordinance is a re-enactment of 24 and 25 Victoria, c. 100, s. 35. I reserve my decision on the constitution to be placed on the word "take" in the said section. In the case of Reg. versus Handley and another v. F. and F. page 6, 8, the defendants were charged under 9 Geo. IV, c. 31, s. 5, on the abduction of a girl under the age of 16. This section is exactly the same as the 24 and 25 Victoria, c. 100, s. 35. The latter statute repealed the statute of 9 Geo. IV, c. 31, and the provisions relating to the offence of abduction of women and children are contained in the 24 and 25 Victoria, c. 100.

In charging the jury, Justice Wigham said:—"You must also be satisfied that the prisoner, or one of them, took the girl out of the possession of her father. For this purpose, a taking by force is not necessary; it is sufficient if such a willful force was used as to cause a woman's house. If, however, the going away was entirely voluntary on the part of the girl, the prisoner would not be guilty of any offence under this Statute."

In Reg. v. Olliver, to Cox C.C. 402, the defendant was charged under Section 55 of the Statute 24 and 25 Victoria, c. 100, with taking a girl under 16 out of the possession of her father. In stating the law of the case to the jury, Wigham, J., said:—"I am of opinion that a young woman leaves her father's house without any persuasion, inducement or blandishment held out to her by a man, so that she has got fairly away from home, and then goes to her father, although it may be his moral duty to return her to her parents, is not guilty of any offence under this Act. It is not the duty of a man to return her to her father, but only that he shall not take her away."

In the present case the prosecution have not satisfied me that the girl, Yeung Hang To, left the complainant's house in consequence of any persuasion, inducement or blandishment held out to her by the defendant. According to her evidence she got away voluntarily. My finding is therefore for the defendant and I order his discharge."

THE CHEEKMAN EXCURSIONS.

CHINESE ANCESTOR-WORSHIPPING.

The annual pilgrimage of Chinese to Chek-wan to visit the tombs of their ancestors, and to do homage to their forefathers, commenced on Thursday, and is continuing daily until Monday next when the last excursion will be made. Up to and including today's departure, it is estimated that something like 10,000 Chinese have made the pilgrimage, and it is anticipated that some 5,000 will avail themselves of the remaining two days' excursions.

Yesterday, Good Friday, being a public holiday, the opportunity was taken advantage of by some 400 Europeans to make the trip and see what was to be seen, although the weather considerably marred the pleasure of the outing. The early part of the day was fine and clear, and good weather was anticipated, but those anticipations, unfortunately for those concerned, were not realized, as about noon the weather thickened and heavy clouds loomed up, and ere long discharged their contents in drenching torrents, so that it turned out a very wet festival for the participants, the majority of the Europeans, no doubt, being sorry they went.

ENERGETIC VICEROY SHUM.

A POLICY OF IMPROVEMENTS.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

Canton, 13th April. Every little while, Viceroy Shum is giving evidence of his progressiveness. He is evidently in earnest in the work he has undertaken. His latest departure is road building. I have frequently called attention to the fact that the Viceroy wants and intends to have an army which will better represent the importance of South China. He wants 24,000 foreign drilled troops and he intends to have them, any one going out from the East gate of the city will be impressed with the energy displayed in military affairs. Barracks have been springing up everywhere. The most important centre seems to be at Yin Lung about five miles from the East gate. Here barracks have been built capable of accommodating from six to ten thousand men. At the foot of Loan Dog mountain there is a level piece of ground suitable for a parade ground and, daily drill is carried on. The raw material is worked into shape. There is also a good range for rifle practice, and the men are being taught to shoot. The road connecting these barracks with the city, while good as roads in China go, is narrow. The Viceroy has determined to have a road suitable for the requirements of his new and growing army. He has issued orders for a wide modern road to be constructed. The survey has been made, and the line staked out and work will be begun immediately. The road will be between fifteen and twenty feet wide and about five miles long. I know of no other road about Canton. Narrow winding foot paths everywhere but there is nothing that should be dignified by the name of road. It is to be hoped that this is but the first of many good roads soon to be built around Canton.

BOXER RISING IN HUNAN.

THREATS TO EXTERMINATE FOREIGNERS.

[From Our Correspondent.]

Canton, 13th April. Native papers report that a few days ago a large body of Boxers, numbering fully 7,000, gathered at a place called Sai-ping in Hunan, holding a banner on which were inscribed the characters "Free China and exterminate the foreigners." Viceroy Chang Chih-tung of the Liang Hu provinces at once despatched a body of troops comprising a wide modern road to be constructed. The survey has been made, and the line staked out and work will be begun immediately. The road will be between fifteen and twenty feet wide and about five miles long. I know of no other road about Canton. Narrow winding foot paths everywhere but there is nothing that should be dignified by the name of road. ## ALLEGED TROUBLE AT SHUN-TAK.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN CLANSMEN.

It is reported that a Chinese merchant, a native of Shun-tak, who arrived in the Colony yesterday from his home, has been spreading rumours that trouble is brewing in that locality. He is stated to have said that a quarrel in Shun-tak is expected during the 4th month (May), and that if a certain person is not killed before that time there is little prospect of the present tension abating. About a fortnight ago some difference of opinion arose between two clans in the district, and it terminated in the death of a well-known villager. Since that time many attempts are alleged to have been made to avenge the death of the villager, but the alleged murderer of the village, who was offered a 200 taels compensation for the death of their man, provided no further attempts were made on his own life. The opposing party emphatically refused to receive any "blood money." Just before the departure of the Shun-tak merchant for this port, a party was appointed to take summary measures against the supposed murderer, but no news has been received as to whether they were successful in their hunting expedition. The Shun-tak Magistrate, we are informed, is taking no notice of the present condition of things.

UNFORTUNATE AMERICANS.

ANOTHER MAGNATE IN A JAPANESE FRACAS.

American magnates visiting this country, says the Kobe Herald, appear to be rather unfortunate in their experience of Japanese crowds. Like Mr. E. H. Harriman, who was unintentionally hustled at Tokyo at the time of the disturbances in the capital last September, Mr. Schiff, the well known New York banker, who is at present in this country, has been coming into purely accidental contact with a Japanese mob in angry mood. It appears that Mr. Schiff was proceeding from Koro to Miyako-shita by the electric tramway on the 3rd inst., when the car was attacked by a mob of villagers from Sui who were carrying a portable shrine. The Tramway Company, it is explained, had been in the habit of making an annual contribution toward the celebration of the village festival, which falls on April 3, but this year the gift had been discontinued. A good deal of local indignation had been caused by this circumstance, and a number of police were drafted to the vicinity from the Odawara Police Station in anticipation of hostilities. Fortunately, the police were able to prevent any damage being inflicted on the car which

Mr. Schiff was travelling, but two of the policemen were severely injured in the struggle. It may be hoped that the American papers will not magnify this incident into another evidence of Japanese hostility to the people of the United States.

SINGAPORE SCHEMES.

Recently we wrote under the caption "Singapore Schemes," a criticism of the proposal to improve the harbour of that port at a cost of something like one and a quarter million pounds sterling. In quoting that editorial, the Eastern Daily Mail says: "Under the above heading, the Hongkong Telegraph expresses, in a conservative way, the opinion which prevails among a majority of the business men of this Colony in regard to our proposed harbour works and other ambitious schemes. The answer of Government to the argument of the Telegraph's leader writer would doubtless be that Hongkong naturally objects to the immense development of the port of Singapore, which is now proposed, but this reply would most certainly fail to account for the hearty endorsement which the views expressed in the leader, which we quote herewith in extenso, will meet among the responsible business men of Singapore." It is satisfactory to learn that our views are substantially endorsed by the business community of Singapore and the tu quoque of the Government of that Colony may be disregarded by those who are interested in the welfare of that port.

WEEKLY SHARE REPORT.

Reviewing the share business for the week, Messrs. E. S. Kadoorie and Co. write, on the 12th inst., as follows: "To-morrow, Friday, being a holiday we are issuing our circular a day earlier than usual. Since we last wrote, nothing of any consequence has taken place in our market and quotations of most of our stocks remain unchanged."

Banks.—Transactions have been done in Hongkong and Shanghai Banks at $86 and $86½, the market closing at $86½. Nationals continue in request at $40.

Marine Insurances.—Cantons have been sold at $350 and there are further buyers at this rate. China Traders have buyers at $96. North China are quoted at Tls. 90. Unions are steady at $750. Yangtzes have been sold at Tls. 100. At the forthcoming meeting of shareholders to be held on 18th instant in Shanghai the directors recommend a dividend of 20% ($12 per share) $96,000, to transfer to reserve fund $50,000, to re-insurance fund $50,000, and to carry forward $127,346.48.

Fire Insurances.—China Fires have further advanced and are in demand at $87, Hongkong Fires are wanted at $305.

Shipping.—China and Manilas remain quiet at $18. Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboats are offering at $25. Indo-China are quoted at $94. Shell Transports have advanced and are wanted at 26½. A small parcel of Taku Tugs have been sold at Tls. 37½. Star Ferries are unchanged.

Refineries.—China Sugars have sellers at $18 and Luzons are quoted at $35. Perak Sugars have improved and can be placed at Tls. 72½.

Mining.—Rauks are to be had at $3. Chinese Engineers continue in demand and have buyers at the improved rate of Tls. 1035.

Docks, Wharves and Godowns.—Hongkong and Whampoa Docks after sales at $170 are now offering at $61. Farnhams have continued steady and close at Tls. 118½ at which rate sales have taken place. Kowloon Wharves can be had at $194. Hongkong Wharves have further appreciated in value and shares have changed hands at $133 and more shares can be placed.

Lands, Hotels and Buildings.—Hongkong Lands are still wanted at $116. Shanghai Lands have gone up to Tls. 120 and close firm with buyers at this rate. Hongkong Hotels have changed hands at $133 and more shares can be placed.

Cotton Mills.—Ewos are still in demand and are now inquired for at Tls. 65. Internationals are quoted at Tls. 62½ and Laou Kung Mows at Tls. 66½.

Miscellaneous.—Cements have declined to $59 and can be had at this rate. China Light and Lowers have been sold at $10, the dividend of 60 cents paid on 9th inst. Sumatras have advanced in the North to Tls. 65 and are firm at this figure. Sales have taken place of Providents at $9 and Wm. Powells have been fixed at $10½ ex dividend. Langkats have sold at Tls. 232½ and close steady at Tls. 235.

FRIGHT.

Messrs. Lamke and Rogge write on the 7th inst. as follows:—

A larger business than during the preceding fortnight has been done during the period now under review and tonnage is scarcer, yet rates continue on an unremunerative level and the demand has not been such as to affect them much. There have been, for special requirements, a few fixtures "on time," all for short terms though. There is such an uncertainty about future prospects that nobody appears to care for any long period time-charter engagement. Competition by Japanese tonnage that has been threatening for some time is still a quite likely contingency. The "Japan Shipowners' Association," newly founded and claiming to have the control of some 130 steamers, are supposed to want to develop in the Japan freight market and the release of further Government chartered steamers to try the local market at opportune moments.

As for the fortnight's fixtures tripwise, concerning Saigon, rates to Hongkong touched 16 cents, close at about 15 cents, quiet. Saigon to the Philippines the inquiry has practically been nil, only fixture reported is a ready boat that accepted 25 cents, in preference to taking a Hongkong charter. Saigon to Kobe, Norway, a "Nordic" has been arranged to take over a charter previously fixed for Japanese s.s. "Kotobira Maru," which later vessel was damaged by collision.

Bangkok-Hongkong business has been the means of giving employment to several light draft outsiders, which load on the berth partly and partly for Chinese account. Consequently upon a lower market for rice locally, however, freight is less firm just at the moment and demand appears to have ceased for now. In this direction there is nevertheless believed to be good prospect for suitable tonnage for the future.

Java to Hongkong continues without inquiry after tonnage.

From the Yangtze ports, a slight demand prevails and at 17½ cand. there may be room for outsiders from Wuhan and Chingkiang for Canton loading, on liners' terms.

Neckwang has been disappointed. Locally orders have been on the market for Amoy or Swatow. For Canton, the first and as it appears the only fixture of a boat effected since the port has actually re-opened, has been as low as 22 cents per picul. Whether circumstances at the Northern port will yet shape so as to allow of anything like the usual trade here; native produce dealers would not seem to know.

Coal freights—Hongkong to Canton has had further business at $2.00 per ton, and there has been a fixture Hongkong to Saigon at res. rved terms.

From Japan, whilst last business has been done from Karatsu for this port at only $1.30, there have been offers at $1.40 for Moji loading that have not brought out takers. Japanese local ports to Shanghai, the market has been described as somewhat easier lately. The rate is probably correctly described as about $1.50. Moji to Chinkiang, a local boat has accepted $1.75.

As for sailers, there is nothing new to report. In the absence of any suitable sailer to be chartered for timber from Borneo, another steamer has just been secured, prompt, Rajang to this port, 1,380 tons net reg. for $11,000 Mex. lump sum.

Salt-tonsage disengaged.—Nil.

Departures of sailers.—None.

HONGKONG is undoubtedly flourishing, for the city on the "mother of rivers" has now a stockbroker. In the near future it may have a Bialto, and probably a stock exchange. But the presence of the stockbroker is an encouraging sign, so long as the shares keep high.

INSPECTOR COLLET proceeded against ten fishermen at the Magistracy on Saturday, on charges of keeping a common gaming house, at No. 10, Tung Wo Lane, West Point, and gambling. Evidence was taken, and the first defendant fined $15, the remainder $2 each.

ADMIRAL Togo and General Negi are projecting a scheme for the erection of a monument on Peiki Hill at Port Arthur in commemoration of the Army and Navy officers and men who fell in the attack on that fortress. Public support will be appealed to when details are completed.

It has just transpired that a woman named Makagawa Yone, living in Fusaniku-muchi, Iyogo, a weaver of cotton goods, has sold some 300 pieces of that material between January and October last, without paying the Sales Consumption Tax on the textiles. A charge has been made against the woman for a violation of the War-Tax Law.

MR. ELAKI, the Japanese Consul-General, and the leading Japanese residents entertained the Admiral Takachino, Prince Fushimi of the South China Squadron to dinner at the Astor House at Shanghai, on the 5th inst. Several Chinese officials were present.

"You are charged with having a quantity of illicit opium in your house," said Mr. F. A. Hazeland to a defendant this morning at the Police Court. "No, I have not," replied the Chinaman. "The excise officer put it there. I saw with my own eyes. I don't smoke." He was fined $75 nevertheless.

ON Wednesday, at the Police Court, Mr. C. E. H. Beavis, of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, appeared for two Chinamen and pleaded guilty on their behalf, on a charge preferred against them by Inspector Gourlay of being on unlawful possession of a quantity of copper. Mr. Hazeland fined the defendants $50 each.

A CHINESE coolie, walking in the Chinese Recreation ground on Sunday morning, was seen by district watchman No. 33 to stumble and fall to the ground. The watchman ran to pick the man up, only to find that he was dead. Heart failure was supposed to have been the cause of death. His body was removed to the mortuary.

CLOTHING hung out to dry in verandahs in Macdonnell Road, Kowloon, have lately been disappearing in large quantities. A watch was kept with the result that a coolie was captured red-handed on Sunday night. On being traced before Mr. Hazeland on Monday, the coolie was sentenced to three weeks' hard labour and six hours' stocks.

LANCE-SERGEANT ARIS prosecuted fourteen coolies, at the Magistracy on Wednesday, before Mr. F. A. Hazeland. The first coolie was charged with keeping a common gaming house at No. 348, Queen's Road West on Tuesday, and the remainder with gambling on the premises. The charge of gambling was proved, and the defendants fined $5 each.

AMONG the passengers leaving on Wednesday for home, via Canada, is Mr. J. French, of the Naval Store Office, H. M. Naval Yard. Mr. French, who, during his three years' stay in the Colony, has cultivated many friends, has been transferred to Portsmouth Dockyard. A large party of friends gathered on Black Pier this forenoon to wish Mr. and Mrs. French bon voyage.

THE other day a gentleman landed in Bangkok, Thailand, and decided to adopt the "shirt waist" style, once attempted, and to some extent successful, in America. He entered one of our New-road hotels, asked for a cooling drink and was refused! Why? Because he had no coat. He was martyred in the cause of reason. 'Twas ever thus!—Bangkok Times

A SASENO telegram says that the work of floating the bitt-ships Wakasa is in progress. The Wakasa, however, is not the authorities are showing profound interest concerning her operations. While the operations for floating the Wakasa were in progress the other day, a steam-pipe exploded and a warrant officer was badly injured. He was removed to the naval hospital, but succumbed.

CHAN KI appeared before Mr. F. A. Hazeland, at the Magistracy on Wednesday at the instance of "agent S.M.s," charged with entering a dwelling house at No. 24, Morrison Street, Sham-shui-poo, early yesterday morning, and stealing clothing, etc., to the value of 141 on the premises of a fisherman. Evidence having been heard, the defendant was sentenced to three weeks' hard labour and six hours' stocks.

THE old woman and man, who were arrested and charged on Tuesday, at the instance of Inspector Chamberlain, with removing the dead body of a child at Shi-po, Kowloon City, without the necessary permit, were brought up on remand on Wednesday. The body of the child was examined at the morgue and it was ascertained that death was due to natural causes. Mr. C. A. D. Melbourne imposed a fine of $25 each.

THE N.D.L. S. Prinz Eitel Friedrich, which arrived at Shanghai on 30th ult., experienced a sharp shock of a submarine earthquake at 7 o'clock on the morning of the 28th ult. in the Formosa Channel. The effect of the shock, which lasted for five or six seconds, was similar to that produced by racing engines, the vibration being so great that many of the passengers were held way on deck to ascertain the cause of the disturbance.

HOK-LO and Cantonese clansmen came into conflict at the Flour Mill works, at Junk Bay, on Tuesday night, with the result that three men had to be transported to hospital, suffering from injuries to their heads. The fight, it was stated, arose through a gambling debt. Wakasa was the first to be placed in a difficult position in the fight. The police arrived on the scene and succeeded in capturing four men, who were placed before Mr. F. A. Hazeland on Wednesday. The defendant was fined $3 each.

THE Japanese Naval Department has given notice that fifteen of the merchant vessels captured during the late war are to be sold by tender. Applications must be sent to the Department by the 10th inst. The following are the steamships, which are to be sold:—Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru, Yokohama Maru.

GLENN, dullness and death we have, like the poor, always with us, and so it is scarcely advisable or necessary to advertise the fact. Yet the shop windows of a certain establishment in the Colony which cater for feminine frumpiness, is now dressed in all the "trappings of woe," which might induce the belief in the mind of the public that the proprietress are possessed of prophetic souls, and are thus preparing for a prolonged visitation from the Angel of Death! Let's hope they are false prophets!

THE Formosa correspondent of the Quarta Shinhwa sends the following returns of the loss of life and property destruction ascertained up to the 31st ultimo:—

Crushed to death	Japanese 13
Wounded	Natives 1,022
Reverely injured	Japanese 24
	Natives 1,873
Houses collapsed	Totally 4,214
	Partially 2,523

The correspondent writes that the casualties were much heavier among the women than among men, more than two-thirds of the list representing women. This is due to the fact that the feet of the women are crippled similarly to those of Chinese women. On the 26th ult. the list of casualties rose to 1,227 in killed and 2,329 in injured, 5,566 in the number of houses totally destroyed and 10,938 in the number partially destroyed.

JOHN DUNNIE, an inmate of the House of Detention, failed to turn up at the "clothing time" on the 2nd instant. A policeman was sent to find Dunnie and arrested him on the Wing-shat wharf on Monday. Defendant, who was lauded destitute in the Colony during the late war, in pleading guilty to the charge, said that he went out to look for work. He had been in the House of Detention for some months and wanted work. Mr. C. A. D. Melbourne sent defendant to gaol for one month, with hard labour.

In publishing a telegram from Hongkong with reference to the recent visit of the French fleet to Hongkong the Courier Saigonensis has the following footnote:—"The above telegram comes to us in the ordinary course of Hongkong telegraphic news, but we may be permitted to express our astonishment that the Consul for France in that city had not thought it necessary to cable to Saigon himself, some details of the cordial reception which his followed in acknowledgment for the fete recently given in our city to the English fleet."

PRINCE YIWO of Korea, who fled to Japan from his native land some years ago, and was arrested for a political offence, has been released by the Emperor of Korea. During his exile he has spent most of his time in Japan, making occasional visits to the United States. Prince Yiwo is going home very shortly, and was to have had a farewell audience with the Emperor yesterday in Tokyo. It is believed that all other Korean political refugees now in Japan will be given a special pardon.

AS will be remembered 27 military store-houses at Hiroshima with their contents, valued at about ¥5,000,000, were destroyed by fire on October 1st last. The conflagration was supposed to be the work of incendiaries and three men were arrested on suspicion of arson. One of them died in prison some time ago, and the other two were acquitted by the court-martial on the 30th ultimo on the ground of the insufficiency of evidence. The reason the military store-houses were destroyed was that the time of the fire Hiroshima was under martial law.

ON Thursday, before Mr. C. A. D. Melbourne, ten coolies were charged at the Police Court with stowing away on board the steamer Victoria from Saigon without the permission of the master. The defendants pleaded guilty to the charge and his Worship imposed a fine of $100 each, with the option of three weeks' hard labour. The steward, a Chinaman, on board the Victoria, had to answer a charge of aiding and abetting the men on board ship, with the intention of defrauding the Company. He also pleaded guilty and was fined $500, or three months' hard labour.

THE formal opening ceremony in connection with the office of the Resident-General of Korea, was held on the 28th ult. in the presence of about 1,500 guests, including Korean, Japanese, and foreign high officials, civilians, and military. The ceremony was also given in honour of the occasion. In an address Mr. French stated that he intended to do his best to assist in the development of Korea, and the Korean Premier in responding stated that he was determined to effect administrative reforms and promote the prosperity of his country, under the direction of Marquis Ito.

THE launch of the steamship Loong-wo, which has been built by the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company to the order of the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company, will leave P.O. on Wednesday, 18th inst., at 5 p.m. The Loong-wo is intended for the Yangtze trade, and as an evidence of the interest which is being manifested in this trade it may be noted that the Li Fong, belonging to the Messageries Reunies, arrived at Hongkong the other day en route to Shanghai, and she will also be employed on the Yangtze. The Li Fong, which is a sister ship of a vessel (the Linan)—belonging to the same firm—already plying on the Yangtze, left yesterday for Shanghai.

THE first annual report of the Hongkong Horticultural Society has just been issued. Reference is made to the success which attended the flower show, and it is stated that the second show will be held in the early part of 1907. Arrangements are being made for obtaining such seeds from home as are required by members. The Society acknowledges the donations and subscriptions to the prize-fund, and states that without the help thus given there would have been a deficit of over $500. As it is the balance hand stands at $1,523. The general meeting at which the report and accounts will be presented to the members takes place this evening.

THURSDAY is usually Bankruptcy Jurisdiction day, at the Supreme Court, but apparently there are no firms or individuals in the Colony in difficulties sufficient to drive them to the protection of that Court through the "whitewashing" process, as there were no bankrupts whatever before the Court. Accordingly, to-morrow being Good Friday, and a Government holiday, the summary sessions will usually deal with on Fridays was taken up by the Justice this morning. The list dealt with to-day, however, failed to provide the usual budget of interesting incidents, the whole list, with the exception of the few cases dealt with elsewhere, being composed of very petty and uninteresting matter.

A FITTER employed in the Electric Light works at Hunghom, engaged a rickshaw on Wednesday afternoon from the Po Hing theatre, Yaumatei, to return to the works. On arrival the fitter tendered the coolie for the drive twelve cents, which was refused by the coolie. After an argument the coolie accepted the fare, and, in doing so, punched the fitter in the eye, drawing blood. The fitter was given in charge. On Thursday, the fitter appeared at the Police Court with a swollen right eye to prosecute the coolie. When asked what he had to say, the defendant said that he would not dare to strike the complainant as he was the only Hoklo man present. The complainant overruled his vehicle and in doing so hurt his eye. The magistrate fined defendant $3.

"WHAT is the matter? Have you a case?" asked His Honour the Police Judge on Thursday of a German lady of embonpoint proportions, who entered the Summary Court at 11 a.m. and took a seat in solitary state in the middle of the front bench of the Court-room. "I was summoned," His Honour: "Oh yes, I know, but you are too late. Lady! But I don't owe money. His Honour: I am sorry for you, but I have given judgment with costs against you. You should have been here at the proper time—10 o'clock—it is now 11 o'clock." "Humph!" muttered the irate defendant, as she bounced up from her seat and sailed to the door of the small Court, after entering which she did not forget to announce her wrath, for she banged the unoffending door in a way that made the coffee thing, wine judge, lawyers, and loafers all amazed. But His Honour ignored the perturbed!

CHONG CHEUNG, a bar-bay in the Occidental Hotel, Kowloon, was charged on Monday, before Mr. F. A. Hazeland, with stealing $11.25, the property of his employers, on the 8th instant. Mrs. M. Mathew said that defendant had only been in her employ for about a week. She had been in the habit of storing the till she found $11.25 gone, and looking underneath the counter she found $1.95 hidden in a cigar-box. Defendant was the only "boy" behind the bar. At the station defendant was searched and the balance of the money found in his shoes. The defendant had nothing to say in defence, and his Worship sentenced him to three weeks' hard labour and six hours' stocks.

A COOLIE, in the employ of a shop in the Central District, found himself suddenly turned on the street some days ago, for it was a legend, telling a photograph from the firm. Thinking perhaps that he had got off cheaply he failed to turn up for his box of clothing. Last night he "turned up" in a curious way, for his former master discovered him under his bed with some clothing—not the property of the nocturnal visitor—at his side. On examining the entrances to the premises, it was found that the street door was left wide open, and the padlock wrenched. The coolie, who said he had "only returned for his property," was given in charge, and on Monday was sentenced to three weeks, and to do six hours' in the stocks.

SHOE-STEALING among the Chinese is of common occurrence. It has got to such a stage that their own people seldom take any notice of a companion's predicament. A coolie goes to the theatre and the first thing he does is to touch on top of his seat, leaving his shoes on the floor. When he wants to leave his shoes are gone, and some of them think nothing of it. A passenger on board the Humam from Canton was the victim of one of these annoying experiences, but fortunately his shoes were of a colour and shape that could be distinguished among a crowd. He left the boat and on the way home found the thief wearing his shoes. The man was given in charge, and at the Magistracy on Saturday Mr. C. A. D. Melbourne sentenced him to fourteen days' hard labour.</
